Index

Adjusted cumulative current account, 297
Aggregate consumption externality, 65, 81 Aggregate demand, effective, and domestic bond price, 175–76
Allocations, feasible, and bond market equilibrium, 176–80
Arbitrage
and fundamentalists, 132
and law of one price, 87–88, 93–94
ARCH-M model, 329
ARCH model(s), 233, 313, 332n.19
ARMA model, 47
Asset pricing models, 310, 312, 319, 322
Asset-supply approach, 1
Asset trading theories, 3
Asymmetric payoff information, 3, 4–5
Asymptotic theory, for kernel regressions, 29
Balassa-Samuelson formulation or effect, 240, 241, 242, 279, 281, 288, 290–91
Bank for International Settlements, 243, 270
Bank nationality, and volume-volatility relationship, 44, 55, 57, 59
Bank size
and volatility, 41
and volume-volatility relationship, 44, 54–55, 58
Bayesian-Nash equilibrium (BNE), 25
Behavioral equilibrium exchange rate
(BEER) approach, 241–42, 247, 257, 272–
73n.7, 278
Bifurcation analysis, 189–201
Black money, 207, 225, 227–29
Bond market equilibrium, and feasible allocations, 176–80
Bond price, domestic, and effective aggregate demand, 175–76
Border effect, 92
Bretton Woods system, collapse of, 239, 307, 322
British sterling, in study of exchange rate models, 245, 247, 261
Business cycles, and expectation formation in model, 171
Canada
in nonlinear model for exchange rates, 313, 319, 320, 321, 322, 332n.21
in study of euro, 283, 285, 290, 300
Canadian dollar
in nonlinear model for exchange rates, 319
in study of exchange rate models, 245, 247, 264, 269
Capital asset pricing model (CAPM), 310, 312
Capital markets, international, 201
Causality, and price-order flow relationship, 14–15 Central bank (CB), 23, 68. See also European Central Bank Central bank (CB) currency demand, and price, 3
Central bank-demand approach, 1, 1–2
Central bank trades, in micro portfolio balance model, 6–7
Chartists and chartism, 128–32, 160, 160– 61 evolutionary stability of, 159–60
and money markets, 277
and simple nonlinear exchange rate model, 135, 137, 149
Classical unemployment, 176, 177
Clustering, volatility, 152–55
Cobb-Douglas utility function, 186 Cointegration
and long-run equilibria relationships, 277
in nonlinear model, 312, 314, 316, 317, 318, 320, 322
in real-exchange-rate model, 280–81
in study of euro, 292, 293, 295
in study of exchange rate models, 240, 245, 247, 251, 252, 253, 264, 265
Cointegration analysis, 97–100, 147–48, 230, 232, 278, 279. See also Johansen
cointegration analysis method, 278, 281, 291, 299
Competitive international capital markets, 201
Consistency test, 240, 253, 264–65
Constant-coefficient model, 16
Consumers, domestic, in model, 171–73
Croatia, and deutschmark holdings, 227
Currency hypothesis, 208, 233
and deutschmark/euro, 223–29
quantitative assessment of, 229–33
and role of money, 215–23
Currency stocks, 207
Czech Republic, and deutschmark holdings, 227

Demand
foreign, 174
government, 174
and imperfect substitutability, 1
Deutschmark (German mark) and euro conversion, 223–29, 233
shift of interest from to dollar, 226 stock and value of, 207
in study of exchange rate models, 243, 245, 247

Deutschmark-dollar exchange rate, 208

Dickey-Fuller test, 314

Diebold-Mariano statistic, 252, 253, 271

Different-currency assets, as imperfect substitutes, 1, 5. See also Imperfect substitutability)

Direction-of-change statistic, 239, 252–53, 257–61, 264, 265
loss differential series for, 271–72

 Disconnect puzzle, 145, 146–48, 161, 170

Dispersion of beliefs, and volumevolatility relationship, 40, 53

DM/$ spot market, 11

Dollar, Canadian. See Canadian dollar

Dollar, US. See also United States and euro area currencies, 290–99
and forecasts from monetary vs. random walk model, 79
in nonlinear model for exchange rates, 313
real exchange rate of, 282–90
shift of interest to from deutschmark, 226

Dollar-deutschmark exchange rate, 208

Dollar-deutschmark (DM/$) spot market, 11

Dollar-euro exchange rate, 279, 282–83, 299–300

Domestic bond price, and effective
aggregate demand, 175–76

Domestic consumers, in model, 171–73

Domestic production, in model, 173–74

Dornbusch (Dornbush and Frankel) model, xi, 63, 125, 169, 190, 239, 241, 310, 325

Dynamic closed economy model extended to small open economy, 171, 201 behavioral assumptions of, 171–74 dynamics and expectations formation in, 180–88
umerical analysis on, 188–201 temporary feasible states in, 174–80

Dynamic flex price setting, 171

Dynamic general equilibrium models, 170

Eastern Europeans, 207 and deutschmarks, 227, 233
and Euro, 229, 234

ECB (European Central Bank), 221, 224, 227, 228, 229

Eclectic model, 279, 281–82, 284, 286, 290 restricted, 284

ECM (error correction model), 293, 295

Econometrics techniques, xiv

Economic prosperity view, 209–12
theoretical flaw in, 212–15

Effective aggregate demand, and domestic bond price, 175–76

Electronic trading and data on public trades, 1
and testing for imperfect substitutability, 22

EMS
collapse of, 223
Soros’s tilting of, 224

Equilibrium trading strategies, 27–28
Index

Error correction model (ECM), 293, 295
ESTAR model, 64, 82n.3, 108, 109–10
Estimation, and forecasting, 250–252
Euro, 207, 208–209, 277
and black money, 227–29
depreciation and recovery of, xiv, 233–34 and deutschmark, 225–27, 233
and economic prosperity view, 209–12, 213 exchange rate for (analysis), 229–33 factors affecting, 279
stock of, 224–25
Euro, study of, 277–78, 299–300
data sources for, 300–302
empirical results in, 282–99
and modeling of real exchange rates, 279–82
Euro-dollar exchange rate, 279, 282–83, 299–300
European Central Bank (ECB), 221, 224, 226, 227, 228, 229. See also Central bank European Monetary Union, 278
European Union, 69–70. See also specific countries Eurosclerosis, 210
Excess kurtosis, in exchange rate distributions, 150–52, 161
Excess volatility puzzle, 148–50, 161
Exchange rate(s). See also Nominal exchange rate; Real exchange rate dollar-deutschmark, 208 dollar-euro, 279, 282–83, 299–300
in dynamical system, 185–87
of euro (analysis), 229–33
failure to explain, 307
fixed and floating (volatility), 81
floating, 307
in logarithmic form, 96
microstructure of, 229–30, 233
as price of money vs. interest-bearing assets, 212, 233 recent empirical literature on, 278–79
Exchange rate determination, microstructural approaches to, 63
Exchange rate disconnect puzzle. See Disconnect puzzle Exchange rate economics cycles in, xi
divergent paradigms in, xv models vs. data in, 63
Exchange rate modeling, xi–xiii
turnaround in, xii Exchange rate models, 125, 239. See also Dynamic closed economy model extended to small open economy; Micro portfolio balance model; Neoclassical explanation of nominal exchange rate volatility; Nonlinear model for exchange rates; Simple nonlinear exchange rate model ecclectic, 279, 281–82, 284, 286, 290
ESTAR, 64, 82n.3, 108, 109–10
evaluation of (Meese and Rogoff), xi, xii, 125 flexible-price, 239, 307, 310–11 (see also Flexible-price model) interest differential, 239 interest rate parity, 257, 261, 265 (see also Interest rate parity specification or model) macroeconomic, xiii monetary-based, 125, 308
new approaches to, 125–26
"News," 125, 148
Obstfeld-Rogoff, 126 portfolio balance, 22, 125, 208 (see also Portfolio balance model or approach) productivity-based, 245, 247, 269 random walk, xi–xii, 63, 78, 97 (see also random walk model) rational expectations efficient market model(s), 125 smooth transition autoregressive (STAR), 107–109 sticky (sluggish)-price, 239, 241, 245, 256, 307 (see also Dornbusch model; Sticky-price monetary models)
threshold autoregressive (TAR), 94, 107
UIP, 244, 250, 273n.8
Exchange rate models, study of, 239–42, 265, 269–70
data in, 242–43, 270–71
empirical results of, 245–50
forecast comparison in, 250–69, 271–72
full-sample estimation of, 243–44
Exchange rate predictability, 240
Exchange rate variability, xiii
Exchange rate volatility. See Volatility Expectation(s). See also at Rational expectations exchange rates’ reliance on, 308–10 and fundamentals, 311, 328–29
Expectation(s) (cont.)
influence of, 321–22
law of iterated expectations, 324, 327
long-run unitary elasticity of, 265
in simple nonlinear exchange rate model, 127
Expectations feedback, in dynamic model, 201
Expectations formation, in dynamic model, 183–85
Expected rate of inflation, 185–87
Expected volume, 47
Fat tails, in exchange rate distributions, 150–52, 161
Feasible allocations, and bond market equilibrium, 176–80
Fiscal policy, 282
Fixed-point attractors, and simple nonlinear exchange rate model, 133, 135, 137, 160
Flexible-price model, 239, 307, 310–11
and British sterling-dollar rate estimate, 245 modified, 312, 317, 320
and nonlinear model for exchange rates, 310–11, 312
reduced form solution of, 323–25, 331n.11 Flight money, 224–25
black money as, 227–29
Floating exchange rate, 81, 307
Forecasting of exchange rates, 78–81
chartists’ rules of, 128–30
in study of euro, 297
in study of exchange-rate models, 250–69, 271–72
Foreign demand, in model, 174
Forward market
and exchange rate, 40
and volatility, 43
Forward swaps, 51
Franc, in study of exchange rate models, 245
France
in nonlinear model for exchange rates, 313, 321, 322
in study of euro, 283, 285, 300
Fundamental equilibrium exchange rate (FEER), 278 Fundamentalists, economic, 106, 128, 132, 160
and simple nonlinear exchange rate model, 135, 137 and transactions costs, 132
Fundamental levels, exchange rates’ reliance on, 308–10
“Fundamentals” (future payoff information), 4 Fundamental variables and disconnect puzzle, 146–47, 161, 170
and exchange rate movements, 146
and expectations, 311, 328–29
in nonlinear model for exchange rates, 328, 329
in rational expectations efficient market model, 125
GARCH, 152, 161, 312, 314
GARCH forecast of volatility, 333n.26
GARCH(1,1)-M, 48
GARCH(1,1) model, 47, 152, 312, 317, 330, 331–32n.14
German reunification, 245
Germany, in study of euro, 283, 285, 300
Global Financial Data, 270
Global stability of adjustment process, 164n.7
Government demand, in model, 174
Habit model, in model of nominal exchange rate volatility, 65, 72, 73, 78, 79, 81, 83n.15
Habit persistence externality, 64, 65, 67–68
Hausman test, 286, 288, 290
Heterogeneity
and aggregate analyses, 291
of beliefs (simple nonlinear model), 127
in panel analyses of euro exchange rate, 299
and volatility, 40, 41
Heterogeneous agents, 106
and exchange rate model, 126
Heterogeneous expectations, xiii
“Hot potato” trading, 21
Hungary, and deutschmark holdings, 227
“Iceberg” transport costs, 93
Imperfect substitutability, xii–xiii, 1–2
as intervention condition, 21
and micro portfolio balance model, 5–30
and relation of value of currency to stock of currency, 222–23 trading-theoretic approach to, 3–5
Inflation
expected rate of, 185–87
and PPP-relationship, 158
repressed, 176, 177
Information. See Private information;
Public information
Interest differential model, 239 Interest parity, uncovered (UIP), in dynamic model, 183–85, 201
Interest rate
expected, 185–87
national, 220–22
Interest rate differential, real, 279, 291
Interest rate parity specification or model, 240, 242, 257, 261, 265, 269, 270
International capital markets, competitive, 201
International Comparison Programme
(ICP) data set, 90
International Monetary Fund (IMF), 70
International Financial Statistics (IFS), 243, 270, 300, 322
on transportation costs, 92
International risk sharing, 68–69
International Sectoral Database (OECD), 300
International substitutability of assets, 223 Intervention
and micro portfolio balance model, 21–22
trading-theoretic approach to, 23
Intervention policy, 2
Inventory effects, 4
Italy
in nonlinear model for exchange rates, 313, 321, 322
in study of euro, 283, 285, 300
Iterated expectations, law of, 324, 327
Japan
in nonlinear model for exchange rates, 313, 321, 322
in study of euro, 283, 285, 290, 300
Johansen cointegration analysis method, 278, 281, 291, 299
Johansen test, 98, 230, 314, 316
Kernel estimation, 18–19
Kernel regression, 29–30
Keynesian unemployment, 176, 177
Kurtosis, in exchange rate distributions, 150–52
Law of iterated expectations, 324, 327
Law of one price (LOP), 87–93
absolute version of, 87–88
nonlinearities in deviations from, 88, 93–95 and purchasing power parity, 89–90 relative version of, 88
Linear exchange rate determination
models, 69
MacDonald’s hamburgers, product
differentiation of across countries, 112n.1
Macroeconomic models, xiii
Macroeconomics, open economy, xiii
Macroeconomic uncertainty, xv
Mean squared error (MSE) criterion, 78, 239, 240, 252, 253–57, 265, 269
Micro portfolio balance model, 2, 5–11, 22–23. See also Portfolio balance model or approach
empirical analysis of, 11–15
and kernel regression, 29–30
and log price changes, 30
model solution in, 23–28 results and implications of, 15–22
Microstructure of exchange rate, 229–30, 233
Misalignment problem, 146
Misspecification tests, 293
Mixture of distribution hypothesis, 40 Models of exchange rates. See Exchange rate models
Monetary-based exchange rate models,
125, 308
Money, in exchange rate determination, 215–23. See also Currency hypothesis; Deutschmark; Dollar, US; Swedish
krona (SEK) market; Yen; other currencies
MSE (mean squared error) criterion, 78,
239, 240, 252, 253–57, 265, 269
M3, redefinition of, 226
Mundell-Fleming model or approach, 282, 284
“Mystery of the multiplying marks,” 230
National interest rates, 220–22
Nationality of banks, and volume-
volatility relationship, 44, 55, 57, 59
Negative feedback rule, 128, 160
Neoclassical explanation of nominal exchange rate volatility, 64
  data for, 69–70
  model for, 64–69
  model calibration in, 70–73
  results in, 73–81

“New open economy macroeconomics,” xiii, 63, 170, 170–71
“News” models, 125, 148

Noise traders, 129
Nominal exchange rate. See also Neoclassical explanation of nominal exchange rate volatility
  and Dornbusch model, 169
  and real exchange rate, 87
Nominal exchange rate volatility, neoclassical explanation of. See Neoclassica explanation of nominal exchange rate volatility Nonlinear exchange rate model, simple. See
  Simple nonlinear exchange rate model Nonlinearity(ies)
  and deviations from law of one price, 88, 93–95
  in real exchange rate movements, 87, 105–11
  of transactions costs, 132
Nonlinear model for exchange rates, 307–308, 321–22
  and closed-form solutions, 329–30
  data sources for, 322–23
  and expectations of future fundamentals, 311
  and flexible-price model, 310–11, 312
  motivation for, 308–10
  specification and estimation in, 312–21
  and sticky-price model, 311, 312
  stochastic volatility added to fundamental expectations in, 328–29

Obstfeld-Rogoff framework of dynamic utility optimization, 125
Obstfeld-Rogoff new open economy macro model, 126
Open economy macroeconomics. See “New open economy macroeconomics”
Options, and volatility, 43, 51
Option volume, 49
Order flow
  and micro portfolio balance model, 2, 5
  and price, 15, 21, 22
  and swap transaction, 49
  vs. trading volume, 33n.4
Orderly market, and intervention, 21–22
Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD), 70
  Panel analysis, 283–290, 299
  Partial autocorrelation function (PACF), 113n.20
  Payoff information, asymmetric, 3, 4–5
  “Payoffs,” 33n.8
  Perfect substitutability, and law of one price, 88
  Persistent portfolio balance channel, 4, 16
  Pooled mean group (PMG), estimator, 277–78, 285–86
  Portfolio balance effect, 4 Portfolio balance model or approach, xi, xii, 2, 3, 22, 125, 207–208, 233. See also Micro portfolio balance model and currency hypothesis, 208, 215–23, 229 currency stocks in, 207
  theoretical flaw in, 212–15
  Positive feedback rule, 128, 160
  PPP. See Purchasing power parity
  Predictability, exchange rate, 240
Price(s) adjustment of (dynamic model), 180–82 and central bank (CB) currency demand, 3 and order flow, 15, 21, 22
  Price differentials, and law of one price, 91–92
  Price index problems, 89–90
  Price stickiness. See Sticky (sluggish)-price monetary models; Sticky prices
  Pricing-to-market (PTM) theory, 94–95, 112n.3
Pricing puzzles, 170
Private information, xii
  and weekends, 48
Product differentiation across countries, of MacDonald’s hamburgers, 112
Production, domestic, in model, 173–74
Production economy, and nominal exchange rate volatility, 81–82
Productivity advances, and real exchange rate, 281
Productivity-based model, 245, 247, 269
PTM (pricing-to-market) theory, 94–95, 112n.3
Public demand, and imperfect substitutability, 1
Public information and micro portfolio balance model, 14–15, 26
and weekends, 48
Purchasing power parity (PPP), xi, 95–96, 278
absolute, 95
and Balassa-Samuelson models, 241 and cointegration and unit root tests, 96–100, 109 (see also Unit root test) deviations from, 89, 97, 106, 279, 325, 326
and Dornbusch model, 169
and flexible-price model, 323
and law of one price, 87, 89–90
long-span studies of, 101
and nontraded goods, 281
OECD, US, and German, 209
panel data studies of, 102–103
puzzle of, 104–105, 110, 170
and real exchange rate, 87
relative, 95
and sluggish-price model, 325, 326 stochastic assumption of, 323
in study of exchange rate models, 239
Quantity theory of money, xi
Quoting strategies, optimal, 25

Random walk model, xi–xii, 63, 78, 97
and closed-form solutions, 329
and cointegration, 98
and euro-area model, 297
and expectations, 311, 321
naïve, 271
and study of exchange rate models, 239, 240, 241, 252, 257, 261, 269
Rate of return adjustments, 220
Rational expectations, and effect of public information, 15
Rational expectations efficient market model, 125
Rational expectations fully informed agent paradigm, xiv Real exchange rate, 87
under fixed vs. floating regime, 169
modeling of, 279–82
nonlinearities in, 87, 105–11
nonstationarity of, 96, 97, 98, 102
and purchasing power parity puzzle, 104–105 testing for stability of, 99–100, 101
Real exchange rate adjustment, nonlinearity in, 87
Real interest rate differential, 279, 291
Redundancy problem, 212–13
Relative profitability of chartism, 130
Reporters, and volatility, 53
Representative behavioral equilibrium exchange rate model, 240
Reservation prices, and volume-volatility relationship, 40
Reverse causality hypothesis, 14–15
Risk
and imperfect substitutability, 3–4
in nonlinear model, 307, 312, 320, 328
Risk sharing, international, 68–69
Rolling regressions, 250–51
Sensitivity analysis, for simple nonlinear exchange rate model, 135–40
Short swaps, 60n.1
and volatility, 43, 49, 51
Simple nonlinear exchange rate model, 126–32, 160–61
empirical relevance of, 145–55, 161
and evolutionary stability of chartism, 159–60 and permanent shocks, 141–45
sensitivity analysis of, 135–40
solution of, 133–34
stochastic version of, 140–41
with transactions costs, 132–33
and variance of shocks, 155–58
Simultaneity bias, 333n.26
Slovakia, and deutschmark holdings, 227
Slovenia, and deutschmark holdings, 227
Sluggish-price models. See Dornbusch (Dornbusch and Frankel) model; Sticky (sluggish)-price monetary models Smooth transition autoregressive (STAR) model, 107–109
Soros, George, 224
SPA (superior predictive ability), test of, 80
Spain, in study of euro, 283, 285, 300
Speculators, and volatility, 41
Spot market
DM/$, 11
and exchange rate, 40, 49
interdealer transactions in, 34n.17
and volatility, 43
Spot volatility, 49
Spot volumes, and volatility, 51
Standard model, in model of nominal exchange rate volatility, 65
STAR (Smooth transition autoregressive) model, 107–109
Stationary states, in dynamical system, 187–88
Sterling (British), in study of exchange rate models, 245, 247, 261 Sticky (sluggish)-price monetary models, 239, 241, 245, 261, 264, 307. See also Dornbusch (Dornbusch and Frankel) model and British sterling-dollar rate estimate, 245 closed-form solution of, 311, 312 modified, 317, 320 reduced-form solution of, 325–27, 331n.11 Sticky prices, 63, 64, 82, 169, 170, 170–71 Stochastic PPP assumption, 323 Stochastic version of simple nonlinear exchange rate model, 140–41
Stockholm, conference on flexible exchange rates in, xi
Stock shares, and portfolio interpretation, 208
Study of exchange rate models. See Exchange rate models, study of Substitutability of assets, imperfect. See Imperfect substitutability Substitutability of assets, international, 223 Superior predictive ability (SPA), test of, 80 Swaps (standard) and exchange rate, 49 and volatility, 43 Swedish krona (SEK) market, and volume-volatility relationship, 39, 40, 58. See also Volume-volatility relationship Swiss franc, in study of exchange rate models, 247, 250
TAR (threshold autoregressive) model, 94, 107 Taylor, Mark, 64 Taylor’s theorem, 328, 329 Temporary fixed-price situations, 171 Temporary portfolio balance channel, 4, 16 Threshold autoregressive (TAR) model, 94, 107 Trading flows, xiii. See also Order flow Trading rounds, in micro portfolio balance model, 7–10 Trading strategies, equilibrium, 27–28 Trading-theoretic approach to imperfect substitutability, 3–5 to intervention, 23 Trading volume, vs. order flow, 33n.4 Transactions costs, xiv, 94, 107, 132–33. See also Arbitrage UIP model, 244, 250, 273n.8 Uncertainty, macroeconomic, xv Uncovered interest parity (UIP), 242. See also UIP model and Dornbusch model, 310 in dynamic model, 171, 183–85, 190, 201 and flexible-price model, 323 and risk premium, 328 Unemployment, classical, 176, 177 Unemployment, Keynesian, 176, 177 United Kingdom in nonlinear model for exchange rates, 313, 319, 321, 322, 332n.21 in study of euro, 283, 285, 290, 300 United States. See also Dollar, US capital flow into (and decline of euro), 209–12 intervention by, 2 in neoclassical explanation, 69 in nonlinear model for exchange rates, 313, 322 savings rate decline in, 211 Unit root test, 97, 100, 101, 102, 103, 104, 107, 109, 110, 111
Index

and expected vs. unexpected volume, 45, 47
results in study of, 48–57

Wages, adjustment of (dynamic model), 180–82
Wholesale price index (WPI), 92, 99
Williamson, John, 146

Yen, in study of exchange rate models, 243, 245, 247, 261, 264, 269