Index

Accession countries. See CEEC accession countries
Acquis communautaire, 50n.2, 89
ADF (augmented Dickey-Fuller) test, 295 Argentina
 as partially dollarized, 225
 and trade with Brazil, 283n.13
 variability of exchange and interest rate in, 78
ASEAN countries, currency area in, 263 Asia. See also East Asia; Northeast Asia currency union and regional exchange rate volatility, 269
 and trade integration, 273
Asian financial crisis (1997), 263, 289, 312
 as economic integration incentive, 312
 and unilateral currency union, 225
Asymmetric shocks. See Shocks, asymmetric Augmented Dickey-Fuller (ADF) test, 295
Australia, in study of smoothing of shocks, 191, 203
Austria
 and exchange rate study, 134
 as low-deficit country, 205

Balassa-Samuelson (BS) effect or approach and inflation, 2, 3, 22, 128, 147
 key assumptions of, 130
 and real exchange rates, 8, 23, 131, 132–33, 137–44
Banking system, and dollarization, 236–37
Belgium, as high-deficit country, 205
Benefits and costs. See Costs and benefits Bilateral integration, and dollarization analysis, 267
Binding contracts, in modeling of exchange rate variability and unemployment, 82–87
Black market, and model of exchange rate variability and unemployment, 93
Blair, Tony, 156
Blanchard-Quah method, 305, 307
Booster effect on trade (trade booster), EMU as, 165, 178 Brazil
 in trade with Argentina, 283n.13
 variability of exchange and interest rate in, 78
Bretton Woods, collapse of, 267, 285n.28
Brown, Gordon, 156
Budget deficits. See Deficit, government Bulgaria. See also Central and Eastern European countries
 currency board regime in, 11, 20, 45, 79
 EMU trade of, 81
 exchange rate variability and unemployment in, 90, 99, 107, 108, 109
 as expected member, 17
 inflation in, 27n.10
 openness of, 80–81
Business cycle convergence in EU countries, 70
 between EU members and CEECs, 57–59
 and intra-industry trade, 66–68, 72
 and monetary or fiscal policy, 69
 and trade intensity, 55–56, 64–66, 68, 72
Business cycles
 codependent (Northeast Asia currency union analysis), 300–303
 "common feature" and "codependence," 291 Business cycle synchronization, 290
 and currency union dissolution, 325

Canada
EMU trade with, 165
in study of smoothing of shocks, 191, 205 Capital depreciation and business cycle, 221n.23 as channel of income and consumption smoothing, 191, 192, 197, 198, 200, 214 Capital inflows, and currency union dissolution, 331 Capital markets
and exchange rate risk, 81
risk sharing in, 211
as smoothing channel, 194, 207, 208, 209, 215 Catching up
inflation from, 147
issue of, 127–28, 147
CEEC accession countries, 127. See also Central and Eastern European countries Balassa-Samuelson and demand-side effects on, 132 and convergence, 127
and full monetary union, 147 GDPs of, 127–28
and real exchange rate, 127, 128–29, 131–48
regulated prices in, 144
CEECs. See Central and Eastern European countries Central America. See also Latin America and dissimilarities of export base, 269
dollarization of, 264, 283n.4
and dollarization analysis, 264, 279
and output-shock asymmetry, 269
and real exchange rate volatility, 264, 278, 279, 280
and regional exchange rate volatility, 269
and trade integration, 270, 273, 279, 280
Central bank, 41–42
and bureaucracy theory, 51n.9
and inflation, 41, 42, 43, 46, 51n.10 Central bank, common, 41–42
and asymmetric shocks, 47
and inflation in high-distortion countries, 44
and inflation in low-distortion countries, 46
Central bank, European. See European central bank Central and Eastern European countries (CEECs). See also CEEC accession countries; specific countries as converging to EU countries, 73
EMU trade of, 81
EU members' business cycles convergence with, 57–59
and euro introduction, 56, 57 EU trade integration with, 60–61 and exchange rate relations or regime, 78, 79 and industrial production correlation with Germany, 70 labor markets of (exchange rate variability and unemployment), 87–120
openness of, 80–81
unemployment in, 77
Chiang Mai Initiative, 289
China, 300
and labor share values, 309
and Northeast Asia currency union, 5, 289, 292, 299–300, 307, 310, 311 (see also Northeast Asia currency union)
trade of with Japan and Korea, 293–94
China–Japan–Korea free-trade area, prospect of, 292
Codependent business cycles, in Northeast Asia currency union analysis, 300–303
Cointegration model or test, 133, 290–91, 296–97
Common Agricultural Policy (CAP), 200
Common central bank. See Central bank, common Common currency (common currency area). See also Optimal currency areas, theory of; Regional currency in ASEAN countries, 263
benefits and costs of, 55, 265
criteria for, 266, 289–90 practical problems inherent in, 264
Contracts, in modeling of exchange rate variability and unemployment, 82–87 Convergence. See also Business cycle convergence and accession countries, 13, 127
question of need for, 121
Convergence criteria, Maastricht. See Maastricht criteria for entry Convergence gap, 9, 25
Convergence test, in UK–EMU debate, 156
Cost recovery hypothesis, 142 Costs and benefits of common currency or monetary union, 55, 265, 291, 303–304, 314n.9 of dollarization, 227–40, 265

of hard currency, 225
Countercyclical monetary policy, 254, 256
Country credit, and dollarization, 256
Country risk, dollarization as decrease in, 265
Country size, and output smoothing, 189, 200–201
Credibility, and exchange rate regime, 266, 284n.19
Credit/GDP ratio, and currency union dissolution, 331 Credit market
in smoothing of EMU business cycles, 188, 190–91, 207, 208–209, 212, 216, 222n.37
in US consumption smoothing, 194, 207, 208–209, 215 Credit risk, and full dollarization, 233
Crises. See Currency crises
Currency area. See Common currency Currency board
in EU enlargement model, 11–12
and full euroization, 45 Currency crises
and dollarization, 236
and exit from currency union, 321
Currency risk, dollarization as decrease in, 265
Currency union. See Monetary union(s)
Currency union, Northeast Asia. See Northeast Asia currency union Currency union dissolution. See Monetary union dissolution Current account position (balances)
and currency union dissolution, 331
and dollarization, 237
Czechoslovakia, breakup of, 321–22
Czech Republic. See also Central and Eastern European countries
Balassa-Samuelson effect for, 133
and correlation of industrial production with Germany, 70, 72
EMU trade of, 81
and endogeneity hypothesis of OCA criteria, 56
and euro adoption, 79
exchange rate regime in, 79
exchange rate variability and unemployment in, 90, 99, 107, 120
flexibility of labor market institutions in, 87
and German business cycles, 58, 73

Decolonization, and currency union dissolution, 325, 331, 337
Default risk, and dollarization, 233, 236 Deficit, government
and accession countries, 33
and consumption smoothing, 203–207, 214
and currency union dissolution, 331, 336
and risk sharing, 189
Denmark
as eurozone entrant, 189, 211
as low-deficit country, 205
Derogation, right of (introduction of euro), 79
Devaluation risk, and dollarization, 233, 236
Developed countries, and law of one price, 131
Developing countries, currency crises in, 263 Difference-indifference analysis, 160–61, 166, 167
Dixit-Pindyck model, 87
Dollarization, 225–26, 263, 265, 319
as alternative monetary union, 4–5 costs and benefits of, 227–40, 265
vs. regional currency areas, 264–65, 279–81
vs. regional currency areas (assessment), 266–79
vs. regional currency areas (data used), 281–82
seriousness of, 319
Dollarization models
and fiscal deficit volatility (comparison), 251, 256 with fully dollarized economy, 244–45, 255–56 and macroeconomic volatility (comparison), 249–53, 255 of partially dollarized economy with flexible exchange rates, 240–43, 245–49 sensitivity analysis of, 254–55, 256, 259, 260n.20 and terms-of-trade shocks (comparison), 251, 253, 256 welfare exercise on, 253–54, 256

East Asia. See also Asia currency crises in, 263
and dissimilarities of export base, 269
and dollarization analysis, 264, 279

East Asia (cont.)
and monetary union, 2, 4, 5
and output-shock asymmetry, 269
and real exchange rate volatility, 264, 278, 279, 280
and trade integration, 270, 273, 280
and trade intensity, 270, 280
East Asian currency union. See Northeast Asia currency union Eastern Europe. See CEEC accession countries; Central and Eastern European countries Economic distortions and structural reforms, 32
and unemployment, 36
Ecuador, and dollarization, 225, 227, 263, 265
El Salvador, and dollarization, 263, 265 Emerging market economies and exchange rate fluctuations, 80 instability of, 226
Employment. See at Labor market EMU effect on trade, 156–57, 160, 178 data from study of, 163, 180–81
empirical results from study of, 163–69 methodology in study of, 160–63
in UK case, 157, 159–60, 165, 170–77, 178–79 EMU (European Monetary Union) enlargement conditions for achievement of, 46–48 conventional view of, 79
current member states as benefiting from, 49 and influences on real exchange rate and internal price ratios, 147
and monetary policy, 39–42
and monetary union, 31
and optimum currency area (OCA) theory (implications), 61–72 and optimum currency area (OCA) theory (stylized facts), 57–61 polarization instead of convergence from, 32, 49 and smoothing of shocks, 215–16
United Kingdom, Sweden, and Denmark in, 189, 211 EMU enlargement and structural reform, 31–32, 48–50 and effect of monetary union on structural reform, 42–45, 46, 48–50
and monetary policy, 39–42
and need for structural reform, 33–36
and resistance to reforms, 36, 38–39, 46
Endogeneity hypothesis of optimum currency (OCA) criteria, 3, 55–56, 61, 64, 68, 72–73
Endogenous lagged variables problem, 95
Endogenous optimum currency area, indexes of, 70–72
Enlargement phase of EU enlargement model, 8, 14–17
EOCA indexes, 70, 72, 73
Equality of treatment principle, 7
Estonia. See also Central and eastern European countries Balassa-Samuelson implied inflation differential for, 147
currency board regime in, 11, 20, 45, 79, 94
and EMU membership, 147
EMU trade of, 81
and endogeneity hypothesis of OCA criteria, 56
eurozone entry of, 79
in exchange rate mechanism II (ERM II), 27n.4
exchange rate variability and unemployment in, 90, 99, 107
flexibility of labor market institutions in, 87
openness of, 80
real exchange rates and internal price ratios of, 127, 134, 143, 146 EU enlargement model, 7–9, 25–26
and currency board, 11–12
and fiscal issues, 26
and independent monetary policy, 9–11 inflation in, 8, 10–11, 12, 14, 15, 16, 20, 22, 23, 25, 26 numerical exercise on, 17–25
numerical exercise on (alternative), 27n.12 phases of: pre-Maastricht, 8, 20–21 phases of: Maastricht, 8, 13, 21, 25 phases of: enlarged monetary union, 8, 14–17, 21–25, 26 and positive effects of enlargement, 26 Euro
and dollarization debate, 225
early vs. late adoption of (CEECs), 78
and exchange rate risk, 165, 178, 188
Franco-German partnership as key to, 289

introduction of as milestone, 1 from monetary union, 319 right of derogation on, 79 savings from adoption of, 308
Thatcher on, 155
Euro area. See Eurozone Euroization
benefits and costs of, 45
elimination of exchange rate risk from, 120 and Maastricht Treaty, 51n.14 Europe. See also specific countries currency union in, 280
and dissimilarities of export base, 269
financial integration of, 188
and output-shock asymmetry, 269
real exchange rate volatility of, 267, 278–79, 279, 280
and regional exchange rate volatility, 269
and trade integration, 270, 273, 280
European central bank (ECB) creation of, 167
risk sharing as help for, 188
European Monetary Union. See also at EMU and acquis communautaire, 50n.2
as changing economists' outlook, 2
Franco-German partnership as key to, 289 1998 as pivotal year for, 167
seriousness of, 319
trade increases from, 4
and UK–EMU debate, 155–56
European Union. See also EU enlargement model CEEC trade integration with, 60–61
Exchange rate variability and labor markets in, 78
European Union Treaty, 216
Eurozone (euro area)
enlargement of (CEECs), 2–3, 72–73, 79
enlargement of (future), 211
Exchange rate, flexible, and inflation (vs. currency board regime), 12
Exchange rate, nominal, in EU enlargement model, 11 Exchange rate, real appreciation of (catching-up countries), 27n.3 Balassa-Samuelson approach to systematic movements in, 130 decomposition of, 129
in EU enlargement model, 21
influences on (four CEEC accession countries), 127, 128–29, 131–48 variability of (dollarization analysis), 267–69, 273–81 vis-à-vis USA, 181
volatility of, 281
Exchange rate mechanism (ERM II), 57, 79, 127
Exchange rate policy, dollarization as eliminating, 238–39 Exchange rate regime, and CEECs, 79
determinants of, 266, 320
Exchange rate regime choice, self-validating nature of, 311
Exchange rate shocks. See Shocks, exchange rate Exchange rate variability, and trade, 80, 120 Exchange rate variability and unemployment, 77–78 characteristics leading to adverse impact, 85
data and definitions on, 90–94 empirical model and results on, 94–120
and employment vs. unemployment data, 109
and irreversibility of employment decisions, 83, 120
modeling of, 79–89

Factor income, as channel of income and consumption smoothing, 191, 192, 197, 198, 200, 214
Fallback wage, 82, 85
Federal government (US), as smoothing channel, 194
Feldstein-Horioka puzzle, 4
Financial integration, and dollarization, 236–37
Financial services test, in UK-EMU debate, 156
Financial variables, and currency union exit, 325, 336
Finland
as low-deficit country, 205
and USSR collapse, 198
Fiscal deficit volatility, in dollarization model, 251, 256
Fiscal discipline, and dollarization, 227, 233

Fiscal policy, and business cycle convergence, 69
Flexibility of labor force, and CEECs, 87
Flexibility test, in UK–EMU debate, 156
Foreign trade in emerging economies, and exchange rate volatility, 80 France
 and correlation of industrial production with Germany, 72
 and German shocks, 57
 as low-deficit country, 205
 reforms turned back in, 40
Frankel-Rose hypothesis, 3, 55, 56, 64, 72
Full euroization, 45

GDP growth, and monetary union dissolution, 323
GDP per capita, and currency union dissolution, 325
General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade, Japan and Korea in, 292 Germany
 and correlations of business cycles, 57–58, 73 and correlations of growth of industrial production, 58, 70 and industrial production of other EU countries, 70, 72, 73
 as low-deficit country, 205
 reforms turned back in, 40
Gold standard, and trade, 158–59
Government deficit/debt
 and consumption smoothing, 203–207, 214
 and currency union dissolution, 331, 336
 and risk sharing, 189
Government role, in smoothing shocks, 187, 190, 202–203, 214, 216 Gravity model of international trade, 65, 80 difference-indifference version of, 160–61, 166, 167
Greece, as high-deficit country, 205 Growth
 and dollarization, 237–38
 GDP (and monetary union dissolution), 323
 trade, 60–61, 331, 336
Growth, stability and jobs test, in UK–EMU debate, 156
Grubel-Lloyd indexes, 66
Guatemala, dollarization in, 265

Hard currency pegs, 45, 319 benefits of adopting, 225
 vs. currency unions, 263
Hausman specification tests, 95
Hiring costs, and effect of exchange rate uncertainty on job creation, 85
Hodrick-Prescott filter, 305, 307
Hungary. See also Central and Eastern European countries
 Balassa-Samuelson effect for, 133
 Balassa-Samuelson implied inflation differential for, 147
 and correlation of industrial production with Germany, 70
 and EMU membership, 147
 EMU trade of, 81
 and endogeneity hypothesis of OCA criteria, 56
 and euro adoption, 79
 EU trade of, 60
 exchange rate regime in, 79
 exchange rate variability and unemployment in, 90, 99, 107, 120
 flexibility of labor market institutions in, 87
 and German shocks, 57
 and optimum currency area, 73
 real exchange rates and internal price ratios of, 127, 134, 146
 tradables and nontradables in, 135, 151n.3

Idiosyncratic shocks. See Shocks, idiosyncratic "Imbalance" growth phenomenon, 311
Imperfect substitutability, 131
Income per capita, and currency union dissolution, 336
Independent monetary policy, in EU enlargement model, 9–11 Inflation
 and admittance to union, 31
 and catching-up process of accession countries, 128, 147
 and central bank, 41, 42, 43, 46, 51n.10 and currency (monetary) union dissolution, 6, 325, 333, 336, 337, 342
 and dollarization, 227, 240, 256
 in EU enlargement model, 8, 10–11, 12, 14, 15, 16, 19, 20, 22, 23, 25, 26
 and eurozone enlargement, 2, 3
 and exchange rate, 79, 80

and high distortions country, 44 influence of enlargement on, 43–44, 46, 47, 48 and monetary union dissolution, 320
and unilateral currency union, 255
Inflation volatility, in dollarization models, 249
Insurance mechanisms, with monetary union, 4
Integration, bilateral, and dollarization analysis, 267 Interest rates
and dollarization, 233, 236
and exchange rate risks, 81 Internal price ratios. See Price ratios, internal International transfers, as channel of income and consumption smoothing, 191, 192, 200, 207, 209, 211, 212, 214, 215 Intra-industry trade, 60–61, 64 and business cycles, 66–68, 72
and OCA criteria, 72
Investment, and dollarization, 237–38
Investment projects, and uncertainty of future earnings, 81
Investment test, in UK–EMU debate, 156 Ireland
in currency union with Britain, 337
as high-deficit country, 205
Italy
and German shocks, 57
as high-deficit country, 205
reforms turned back in, 40

Japan, 300
and labor share values, 309
as low-deficit country, 205
and Northeast Asia currency union, 5, 289, 292, 299–300, 307, 309, 310, 311 (see also Northeast Asia currency union)
in study of smoothing of shocks, 191
trade of with China and Korea, 293–94
Japan–Korea free-trade area, prospect of, 292
Job creation, and exchange rate uncertainty, 81
Johansen cointegration method, 133, 290–91, 296–97

Korea, 300
and labor share values, 309
and Northeast Asia currency union, 5, 289, 292, 299–300, 307, 310, 311 (see also Northeast Asia currency union)
trade of with China and Japan, 293–94

Labor market(s), of CEECs (exchange rate variability and unemployment), 79–120 characteristics leading to adverse impact, 85
and employment vs. unemployment data, 109
and fallback wage, 8, 85
and flexibility, 87
and irreversibility of employment decisions, 83, 120
Labor market policy, employed insiders as benefiting from, 38 Labor market reforms
and eurozone enlargement, 2–3
and monetary union, 32
Labor market regulations
as enlargement preparation, 33 reform of needed (EU-15), 36, 38–39 (see also Structural reform and EMU enlargement) Latin America. See also Central America; South America
and dollarization, 225, 263
and monetary union, 2, 4–5
and regional exchange rate arrangements, 81
Latvia. See also Central and Eastern European countries
EMU trade of, 81
and endogeneity hypothesis of OCA criteria, 56
exchange rate regime of, 20, 79, 94
exchange rate variability and unemployment in, 90, 92, 99, 107, 120
Law of one price (LOOP), 130, 131
Laws of motion (dollarization model), 242, 256–57
Lender of last resort
and dollarization, 239, 265
and "hard peg," 45
Lithuania. See also Central and Eastern European countries
currency board regime in, 11, 20, 79
EMU trade of, 81
and endogeneity hypothesis of OCA criteria, 56
eurozone entry of, 79

Lithuania (cont.)
EU trade of, 60
in exchange rate mechanism II (ERM II), 27n.4
exchange rate variability and unemployment in, 90, 92, 99, 107
Luxembourg, and study of smoothing of shocks, 191

Maastricht criteria for entry, 31, 49 and entry of Central European countries, 3, 57
and new members, 13
and 1998 as pivotal year, 167
Maastricht phase of EU enlargement model, 8, 13 Mercosur countries
common currency for, 263–264
and exchange rate or interest rate variability, 78, 120
Mexico, and dollarization, 225, 236
Minimum wage restriction, and effect of exchange rate uncertainty on job creation, 85
Monetarist counterrevolution, 1 Monetary integration, 319
for Europe, 1 (see also European Monetary Union)
and optimum currency area, 321
and trade intensity, 55
Monetary policy
and asymmetric real shocks, 265 and business cycle convergence, 69 dollarization as eliminating, 238–39, 265 and dollarization-model sensitivity, 254, 255, 256
and structural distortions, 48–49
Monetary unification, in broader integration project, 264 Monetary (currency) union(s), 342. See also Regional currency costs and benefits of, 291, 303–304, 314n.19 dynamic effects of, 266, 284n.21
in East Asia, 280
and experts' advice, 1–2 in Europe, 1–2, 280 (see also EMU enlargement; European Monetary Union) exits from vs. entries into, 319 (see also Monetary union dissolution) and government role in smoothing of shocks, 187
vs. hard currency pegs, 263 insurance mechanisms with, 4 and labor market reforms, 32 in Latin America and East Asia, 2, 4–5 (see also Dollarization; Northeast Asia currency union) membership of, 343n.1
and OCA, 190
questions about (CESifo Venice conference), 2
risk sharing in, 190–191
short-term flexibility and long-term rigidity in, 214–15 between sovereign nations (long-lasting), 337 and trade, 3–4, 157, 157–160
unilateral, 225, 255 (see also Dollarization) Monetary union, Northeast Asia. See Northeast Asia currency union Monetary union dissolution, 5–6, 319–20, 342 analytical frameworks on, 320–22 causal factors in, 323–36
causal factors in (illustrative details), 336–42 data in study of, 322–23
and inflation, 6, 325, 333, 336, 337, 342
Montenegro, full euroization in, 45
Mundell, Robert, 1, 264

National identity, dollarization as loss of, 240
Netherlands, as high-deficit, 205
New members (NMs), 7. See also EU enlargement model Nicaragua, as nondollarized developing economy, 225 Nontradables, 149
for measure of relative prices, 135, 151n.3
Northeast Asia currency union, 5, 289, 292–94, 310–12
and common long- and short-run cycles, 296–303 data and preliminary analyses in study on, 295–96 potential output loss from, 303–10, 312–13
Norway, in study of smoothing of shocks, 191, 205

Official consensus, 188
Optimal currency areas, theory of, 1 and currency agreements among countries, 264 and dissolution of monetary unions, 5–6 and EMU enlargement (implications), 61–72 and EMU enlargement (stylized facts), 57–61

and exit from currency union, 321
and UK–EMU debate, 159
Optimum currency area, 190
Hungary, Slovenia, and possibly Poland in, 73 Optimum currency area (OCA) criteria, 289–90 endogeneity hypothesis on, 3, 55–56, 61, 64, 68, 72–73
endogenous (indexes of), 70–72
Output reaction to external shocks, in dollarization model, 251, 253, 256
Output synchronization, and Northeast Asia currency union, 290–91 (see also Northeast Asia currency union)
Output smoothing. See Smoothing of shocks in EMU and OECD Output volatility, in dollarization models, 249

Panama, and dollarization, 237, 265
Paraguay, variability of exchange and interest rate in, 78
Partially dollarized economies, 225, 240–43, 245–49, 259n.2. See also Dollarization models
Peru, and dollarization, 225, 226, 240, 245, 247, 248, 249, 259n.16
Poland. See also Central and Eastern European countries Balassa-Samuelson effect for, 133
and correlation of industrial production with Germany, 70
and endogeneity hypothesis of OCA criteria, 56
and euro adoption, 79
exchange rate regime in, 79
exchange rate variability and unemployment in, 90, 92, 99, 107, 108, 120
flexibility of labor market institutions in, 87
and German shocks, 57
openness of, 81
and optimum currency area, 73
and real exchange rate appreciation, 23
Political change, and currency union dissolution, 336, 342
Pre-Maastricht phase of EU enlargement model, 8, 20–21 Price ratios, internal, 129–130 influences on (four CEEC accession countries), 127, 128–29, 130–31, 134, 137, 141, 143–44,146–48
and real exchange rates, 134
Prices, regulated. See Regulated prices
Price stability principle, 7. See also Inflation
Price stabilization, and dollarization, 227
Private insurance, in risk sharing, 190 Productivity
and internal price ratios, 146 measure of, 128
and real exchange rates, 132–33, 135, 137, 139, 146
Public sector, in smoothing of shocks, 190. See also Government role

Re-distribution issue, in Asian currency union, 308, 309 Regional currency
for ASEAN countries, 263
vs. dollarization, 264–65, 279–81
vs. dollarization (assessment), 266–79
vs. dollarization (data used), 281–82
Regionalism, 312
Regulated prices and internal price ratios or CPI-based real exchange rates, 128–29, 147–48
and real exchange rate, 142–44
Relative weight question, and common monetary policy, 44 Reservation (fallback) wage, 82, 85
Right of derogation (introduction of euro), 79 Risk sharing
assumptions behind, 192
in eurozone, 4
in monetary union, 190–91
patterns of, 189
private insurance in, 190
and size of countries, 189, 200–201 and smoothing of shocks in EU and OECD, 187–88, 213–16 and smoothing of shocks in EU and OECD (comparison with US states), 207–12, 215, 216, 222n.43 and smoothing of shocks in EU and OECD (data sources), 216–19

Risk sharing (cont.)
and smoothing of shocks in EU and OECD (empirical results), 196–13 and smoothing of shocks in EU and OECD (methodology of study of), 191–94 and smoothing of shocks in EU and OECD (panel data estimation notes), 194–96
by US financial markets, 188
Romania. See also Central and Eastern European countries
EMU trade of, 81
exchange rate regime in, 79
exchange rate variability and unemployment in, 90, 92, 99, 107, 108, 109
as expected member, 17
openness of, 81
Rose, Andy, 3

Saving, private, smoothing consumption through, 191
Saving and dis-saving, as channel of income and consumption smoothing, 191, 192, 197, 198, 200, 201, 212, 214
Seignorage, and dollarization, 226, 227, 233, 256, 265 Shocks
and codependence statistic, 301–302, 303
common, 51n.6
correlation of, 290
in currency-union model, 304–307, 311
endogeneity of, 25
and exchange rate volatility, 77, 108 and optimal currency area, 264–65 smoothing of (EMU), 187–89 (see also Smoothing of shocks in EMU and OECD) transmission mechanism crucial for, 290 Shocks, asymmetric, 58
and bilateral integration, 269 and business-cycle correlation, 55
calculation of, 281
and currency union exit, 325
insurance mechanisms for, 4, 190
and OCA theory, 61
and real exchange rate volatility, 275, 278, 280
and remaining outside EMU, 32
smoothing of, 187, 188
Shocks, exchange rate
in EU enlargement model, 16
real, 25
Shocks, idiosyncratic, 214
and monetary union exit, 323
smoothing of, 187
Shocks, supply
country-specific, 25
in EU enlargement model, 12, 13, 17, 21
Shocks, symmetric
and OCA theory, 61
supply, 23
Shocks, terms-of-trade (and dollarization), 238, 251, 253, 256
Single currency, 7. See also Common currency
Size of country, and output smoothing, 189, 200–201
Slovakia (Slovak Republic). See also Central and Eastern European countries
Balassa-Samuelson effect for, 133
Balassa-Samuelson implied inflation differential for, 147
and correlation of industrial production with Germany, 70
and EMU membership, 147
EMU trade of, 81
and endogeneity hypothesis of OCA criteria, 56
exchange rate regime in, 79
exchange rate variability and unemployment in, 90, 99, 107, 120
flexibility of labor market institutions in, 87
and German business cycles, 58
items of regulated prices for, 150
real exchange rates and internal price ratios of, 127, 134, 146
tradables and nontradables in, 135
Slovenia. See also Central and Eastern European countries
Balassa-Samuelson effect for, 133
Balassa-Samuelson implied inflation differential for, 147
and correlation of industrial production with Germany, 70
and EMU membership, 147
EMU trade of, 81
eurozone entry of, 79
exchange rate regime in, 79
exchange rate variability and unemployment in, 90, 99, 107, 120

flexibility of labor market institutions in, 87
openness of, 80, 81
and optimum currency area, 73
real exchange rates and internal price ratios of, 127, 134, 146 Smoothing of shocks in EMU and OECD, 4 by government, 187, 190, 202–203, 214, 216
by private sector, 187–88, 190, 201–203, 214, 216
and risk sharing, 187–88, 213–16
and risk sharing (comparison with US states), 207–12, 215, 216, 222n.43
and risk sharing (data sources), 216–19 and risk sharing (empirical results), 196–213 and risk sharing (methodology in study of), 191–94 and risk sharing (panel data estimation notes), 194–96 South America. See also Latin America
and dissimilarities of export base, 269
and dollarization analysis, 264, 279
and output-shock asymmetry, 269
and real exchange rate volatility, 264, 278–79, 279, 280
and regional exchange rate volatility, 269
and trade integration, 270, 273, 280
South Korea. See Korea
Soviet Union, breakup of, 321–22
Spain
and German shocks, 57
as high-deficit country, 205
Speculative attacks, and exit from currency union, 321
Spillovers of reform policies, from monetary union, 43, 44, 49 Stability and Growth Pact (SGP), 187, 212, 216
and currency union dissolution, 336
Steady-state equilibrium (dollarization model), 257–58
Structural distortions, and monetary policy, 48–49
Structural reform and EMU enlargement, 31–32, 48–50 and conditions for enlargement, 46–48
and monetary policy, 39–42
and need for structural reforms, 33–36 and reforms under autonomy and under monetary union, 42–45
and resistance to reforms, 36, 38–39
Substitutability, imperfect, 131 Supply shocks. See Shocks, supply Sweden
and eurozone (EMU), 50n.2, 189, 211
as low-deficit country, 205
Symmetric shocks. See Shocks, symmetric

Tax systems, of accession countries, 33
Terms of trade, and exchange rate swings, 77
Terms-of-trade shocks, and dollarization, 238, 251, 253, 256
Thatcher, Margaret, 155 Tradables, 149
for measure of relative prices, 135, 151n.3
Trade
and currency union, 157, 157–60
and dollarization, 237 (see also Dollarization) Trade, EMU effect on. See EMU effect on trade Trade booster, EMU as, 165, 178
Trade diversion, 161, 182n.15
Trade flows, and monetary union, 3–4 Trade growth
and currency union dissolution, 331, 336
intra-industry, 60–61
Trade integration
and cycle correlation, 156
and dissolved currency unions, 321
in dollarization analysis, 270–73, 279–80
Trade intensity
and business cycle convergence, 55–56, 64–66, 68, 72
calculation of, 282
in dollarization analysis, 267, 270
and real exchange rate volatility, 275
Trade openness
of CEECs, 80–81
and currency union dissolution, 336
of Slovenia, 107
Trade unions, and effect of exchange rate uncertainty on job creation, 85 Transaction costs
and common currency, 55, 166, 265, 266
and EMU impact on trade, 156
and law of one price, 131
and small nation in currency union, 308

Transitional recession, 58 Transition from planned to market economy in Central and Eastern Europe, 77 and price deregulation, 142 Transition process of entry into eurozone, for Central European countries, 3 Transposition deficit, 162

UK–EMU debate, 155–56, 159
 and Brown's economic tests, 156
 and EMU impact on trade, 159–60
 and UK trade experience, 178–79 Underground economy
 in accession countries, 33 and model of exchange rate variability and unemployment, 93
Unemployment, and distortions in labor market, 36
Unemployment benefit systems, and effect of exchange rate uncertainty on job creation, 85
Unemployment and exchange rate. See Exchange rate variability and unemployment Unilateral currency union, 225, 255. See also Dollarization United Kingdom
 EMU effect on trade of, 157, 159–60, 165, 170–77, 178–79
 as eurozone entrant, 189, 211
 as high-deficit country, 205
 and UK–EMU debate, 155–56, 159–60, 178–79
United States
 exchange rate variability and labor markets in, 78
 federal budget redistribution in, 187 federal government as smoothing channel in, 194
 as high-deficit country, 205
 insurance mechanisms in, 4 smoothing of shocks by markets in, 188 smoothing of shocks among states of, 191, 194, 207–12, 215 Uruguay
 as partially dollarized, 225
 variability of exchange and interest rate in, 78
USSR, collapse of, 198

Vector error correction model, in Northeast Asia currency union analysis, 299–300, 305
Volatility, macroeconomic, 226

Wage effect, on real exchange rate, 141–42
Werner report (1970), 2
Wooldridge test, 99, 109
World Trade Organization, Japan and Korea in, 292

Yugoslavia, breakup of, 321–22. See also Slovenia