Cournot assumption, in rivalry situations, Abernathy, William J., 223, 225 Adell Chemical Company, 110 Critical revision, 10, 21 Advertising costs, in cereals industry, 151, Dasgupta, Partha, 62 Allocation of resources, 83-116 Decision making for innovation, 120-123, Anderson, John, 9 Antitrust action, against ready-to-eat 125 - 128Demand-pull theory, 1, 61, 120, 127 cereals industry, 142 and patenting, 176-177, 179-180 Antitrust decrees, 171 Development, 21, 26. See also Research and investment patterns, 208-209, and development 212-214, 216 cost functions, 62 and market structure, 217, 219-220 optimal development schedule, 59-60, and patenting, 207-208 statistical studies of effects of, 207-220 76-80, 87 Archibald, G. C., 64 possibility function, 121, 123 of steam engine, 21 Arrow, Kenneth J., 59, 130 Dickinson, H. W., 17 AT & T, 108 Diversification, 191-193, 222-223 Baldwin, W. L., 62 firm size, innovation and, 222-237 Barzel, Yoram, 61 and inventive output, 235-236 Duopoly behavior, and rivalry of firms, Bell Telephone Laboratories, 60 90 - 111Bond, Ronald, 63 Boulton, Matthew. See Watt-Boulton Duplication models, 63-64 DuPont Company, 4, 5 steam engine Bright, A. A., 109 Economic applications of invention, 5 Brownlee, O., 177 Employment of technical engineers and Buzzell, Robert D., 150 scientists, 239-247, 268 Entrepreneur-innovator, role of, 13-14. Canadian Patent Office, 57, 292 Cannibalization See also Innovation Equilibrium model, 61-62 in cereals industry, 147-149, 152-156 and optimal product variety, 147-150 Capitalist-investor, role of, 13-14. See also Fast second strategies, 62 Federal Trade Commission's line of Investment business survey, 35, 226, 249, 292 Cereals industry. See also specific Fellner, William, 59 companies Firm size, 169-171 cannibalization, 147-149, 152-156 diversification, innovation and, 222-237 consumers' surplus in, 157-161 and inventive output, 222-237 cost of new product launching in, 150-152 and patenting, 176-177, 179-191 new products and profitability of, and propensity to patent, 188-191 156-157 statistical studies of, 175–198 product variety in, 142-162 First-mover advantage, 63 structure of, 142–144 Fisher, Franklin M., 170 Characteristics preference models, and Ford Motor Company, 183 optimal product variety, 144 Childs, G. L., 62 Galbraith, J. K., 59 Competition. See Rivalry of firms Gelman Research Associates study, Concentration, and productivity growth, 223-225 249-254 Consumer utility function, and optimal General Dynamics, 193 General Electric, 189 product variety, 144 General Foods, 142, 143, 152, 153, 156, Consumers' surplus, in cereals industry, 158 157 - 161

General Mills, 142, 143, 152, 153 and diversification, 191-193, 235-236 General Motors, 183 general use, 37-38 Geographic spatial analogies, and optimal importance of and expenditures on, 3-7 product variety, 144 patented inventions. See Patents Gibrat's law, 172, 254 private goods, 38, 51 public goods, 38 Government-financed research and development, 182-183, 266 specific use, 37-38 in steam engine development, 21 technology flows matrix in, 51-52, 54 Greer, Douglas F., 249, 250, 252 technology flows matrix. See Technology Griliches, Zvi, 177 flows matrix Grossman, Elliot S., 271 Inventive output and diversification, 235-236 Hamberg, Dan, 198 and firm size, 227-235 Hamm, Larry G., 219 firm size, market structure and Harvard Weapons Acquisition Research opportunity, 175-198 Project, 1 and market power, 194-198 Hayes, Robert H., 223, 225 patent statistics as index of, 175-176 Horowitz, Ira, 59, 198 Investment, 26, 32, 83-84, 169 Hotelling, Harold, 144 and antitrust decrees, 208-209, 212-214, I. G. Farben, 108 characteristics of capitalist, 13-14 Improvements, in Watt-Boulton steam and importance of invention, 3-7 engine, 21-22 and innovations, 263-264, 268 Incentives for research and development, in new cereals products, 150-152 62 - 63in steam engine, 10-16 Industrial Research and Development competition, 225-227 Jenkins, Rhys, 17 Inflation, 261 Joint maximization, in rivalry situations, Innovation, 5, 6, 26, 262 98-99 characteristics of entrepreneur, 13-14 clustered innovations, 263-264 Kaysen, Carl, 61 decision making for, 120-123, 125-128 Kellogg Company, 142, 143, 152, 153, 156, definition of, 8 158, 160 demand-pull theory of. See Demand-pull Kendrick, John, 271 Kohn, Meir, 170 firm size, diversification and, 222-237 Kondratieff, N. D., 263, 264, 268 and investments, 263-264, 268 and market structure, 59-64 Lancaster, Kelvin, 64 and productivity growth, 257-259, Lange, Oscar, 60 262-263 Lean, David, 63 statistical studies of, 169-173 Leontief, Wassily, 34 in steam engine development, 10-16, 21 Loesch, August, 144 technological maturity and productivity Loury, Glenn C., 62 growth, 261-269 technology-push theory of. See Maclaurin, W. R., 109 Technology-push theory Mansfield, Edwin, 109, 120, 122, 170, 185, Input-output matrix, 1, 34. See also 289 Technology flows matrix Manufacturing Insight, 8-9 facilities, 5 Interindustry technology flows, 32-57, technology flows matrix, sectors in, 51 270 - 282Market growth, in cereals industry, International Harvester, 189 152-156 Invention, 1, 5, 6 Market structure definition of, 8 and antitrust decrees, 217, 219-220

firm size, market structure and inventive decision making for innovation in, output, 175-198 120-123, 125-128 and employment of engineers and geometric approach to optimal patent scientists, 239-247 life, 130-140 firm size, opportunity and output, market power and patented inventions, 175 - 198194-198 nonlinear regression analysis of sales and and innovation, 59-64 patenting, 183-188 and inventive output, 194-198 optimal patent life, 62, 63, 130-140 statistical studies of, 169-173 policy implications of patent terms, Markham, Jesse, 59 138 - 140Marx, Karl, 32 profitability of, 176 Minimax strategy, 95-97 propensity to patent, 34, 179, 180, Monopoly of cereals manufacturers, 142 188 - 191statistics as index of output, 175-176 and innovation, 59, 126-127 technology flows matrix. See Technology and inventive output, 194-198 flows matrix and product variety, 142 and Watt-Boulton steam engine, 21-25 Motivation of entrepreneur, 13, 15 Pavitt, Keith, 57 Mueller, Willard F., 219 Peck, M. J., 60, 62 Perception of unsatisfactory pattern, 9 N-firm case, and rivalry of firms, 111–114 National Distillers Products, 193 PERT-type analytic studies, 67 Pittsburgh Plate Glass, 189 National Science Foundation surveys, 32, Post Company. See General Foods 34, 35, 36, 170, 182, 226, 227–235 President's Council of Economic Advisers, Nelson, Richard R., 60, 191, 223 262 New production processes, 32 Price, Derek J. de Solla, 259 New products, 32, 266. See also Product Prices, new products and profitability of variety; Rivalry of firms industry, 156-157 in cereals industry, 150-152 Private goods, 38, 51 and profitability of industry, 156-157 Process innovation. See Product and Newcomen, Thomas, 9 Nordhaus, William D., 62-63, 130-140 process development Producer Price Index series, 54 North American Aviation Company, 193 Product and process development, 5, 6, 32, Nourse, R. E., 150 Nylon, development of, 4-5 60, 262, 263 Product innovation rivalry. See Rivalry of Oligopoly, and innovations, 59 firms Product variety Opportunity, firm size, market structure and cannibalization, 147-149 and output, 175-198 Output per worker. See Productivity and consumers' surplus, 157-161 model of, 64 pricing and profitability with, 156-157 Passer, H. C., 109 theory of optimal product variety, Patents algebraic model of optimal patent life, 144-150 welfare economics of, 142-162 130-135 Productivity comparative statics of optimal patent life, 135, 137–138

counts of, 34

188 - 191

compulsory licensing, 207-220

theories, 176-177, 179-180

and firm size. 176-177, 179-191

firm size and propensity to patent, demand-pull and technology-push declining productivity growth, 257-259

and research and development, 32, 54-57, technology flows and growth of, 270-282

innovation and productivity growth, and seller concentration, 249-254

and technological maturity, 261-269

257-259, 262-263

286-292

Profitability of research and development, University, 224, 225 286-287 Scott, John T., 170 Public goods, 38 Seller concentration, and productivity, 249-254 Quaker Oats Company, 142, 143, 160 Smith, Adam, 32 Quality of end product, 62, 88–89 Solow, Robert, 257 Spatial approach, to optimal product Rand Corporation, 60 variety, 144 Ravenscraft, David, 286, 291 Spence, A. Michael, 64, 144, 148 Raytheon Corporation, 191 Standard Oil of New Jersey, 183, 189 Ready-to-eat cereals industry. See Cereals Standards of living, and technology levels, industry Research and development Statistical studies concentration, productivity growth and, of antitrust decree effects, 207-220 of diversification, 191-193 249-254 expenditures on. See Investment of employment of technical engineers and government-financed, 51-52, 54, 182-183, scientists, 239-247 of firm size and patenting, 176-177, interindustry technology flows, 32-57, 179-191 270-282 of firm size, diversification and phases of, 4-5 innovation, 222-237 and productivity, 32, 54-57, 286-292 of firm size, opportunity and output, time-cost trade-off function. See 175 - 198Time-cost trade-off function of market power and inventive output, uncertainty of, 67-80, 120-121 194-198 Resource allocation of market structure and innovation, under nonrivalrous case, 83-87 169 - 173under rivalry of firms, 83-116 of patenting and sales, 183-188 Rhoades, Stephen A., 249, 250, 252 patent statistics as index of output, Risk, 120 175 - 176Rivalry between firms, 59-61 of productivity growth and seller Cournot assumption, 95-111 concentration, 249-254 duopolistic models of, 90-111 Steam engine. See Watt-Boulton steam and innovation, 125-128 engine minimax strategy in, 95-97 Stiglitz, Joseph, 62 and N-firm case, 111-114 Sveikauskas, Catherine D., 249, 250, 252 resource allocation under, 83-116 Sveikauskas, Leo, 249, 250, 252 solution concepts in, 95, 97-111 Swift & Co., 189 and technological leadership, 88-90 von Stackelberg leadership in, 99-100 Technical employment, statistical studies welfare implications of, 111-115, 125 of, 239-247, 268 Robinson, Joan, 150 Technological innovation. See Innovation Roebuck, John, 11, 12, 13, 14 Technological leadership, and rivalry of Rosenbluth, Gideon, 64 firms, 88-90 Technological maturity, 261-269 Schaefer, J. W., 59 Technology flows, interindustry, 32-57, Schering Company, 110 270 - 282Schmalensee, Richard, 63, 153, 154 Technology flows matrix, 1, 38-39, 51 Schmookler, Jacob, 1, 34, 120, 177, 258 applications for inventions, 37-38 Schumpeter, Joseph A., 1, 8, 13, 32, 59, 62, categorization by use, 36 construction of, 34-38 169, 170, 194, 222, 243, 245, 257, 263, general-use inventions, 37-38 Schumpeterian innovation. See Innovation government-financing in, 51-52, 54 Science Policy Research Unit of Sussex manufacturing and nonmanufacturing sectors, 51 private goods inventions, 38, 51 public goods inventions, 38 sample analyzed, 36-37 specific-use inventions, 37-38 Technology-push theory, 1, 61, 120, 127, 171 and patenting, 176-177, 179-180 Temin, Peter, 170 Time-cost trade-off function, 59-61, 85, 87, 121-122 modifications of model used, 73-76 optimal development schedule in, 76-80 properties of, 68-73 in uncertain empirical research and development projects, 67-80

U.S. Steel Corporation, 189 Uncertainty, 61, 67-80, 120-121 Usher, Abbott Payson, 1, 8 Usher, Dan, 114 Usherian invention. See Invention

Villard, Henry, 59 von Stackelberg leadership, in rivalry situations, 99-100 von Weizsacker, C. C., 62

Watt-Boulton steam engine, 1, 8–26 improvements made in, 21–22 invention of separate condenser and, 9 investment in, 10–16 and patents, 21–25 technical development of, 16 Welfare economics of product variety, 142–162 and rivalry of firms, 111–115, 125 Western Electric, 197 Wilkinson, John, 18 Worley, J. S., 170

Xerox Corporation, 110