Acknowledgments

Material in this volume has been selected from both published and unpublished sources. Manuscripts, lecture notes, books, films, transcriptions of addresses, recordings, classroom tapes, photographs, and personal recollections have all been used as resources and guides in selecting and editing the many contributions Professor Schell made to management. A bibliography of his published works appears at the end of the book. Every effort has been made to preserve the context and "flavor" of his original words for those who knew him and his expressive manner.

In order to keep the volume within manageable proportions, only a small portion of his many industrial commentaries and essays on the philosophy of education have been included even though these form a unique part of his legacy.

We wish to express our appreciation —

For encouragement and suggestions:

Eleanor L. Bartlett Laura M. Bondi E. Pennell Brooks Douglass V. Brown Gertrude E. Burns W. Van Alan Clark Rev. Gardiner M. Day Richard Fenton Horace S. Ford Peter P. Gil Lillian M. Gilbreth Billy E. Goetz Thomas M. Hill

Barbara Klingenhagen Ralph R. McNay Allan H. Mogensen William F. Pounds John A. Seeger Miriam Sherburne Alfred P. Sloan, Jr. Gerald B. Tallman Ordway Tead

For contributions to the book:

James R. Killian, Jr. Howard W. Johnson

For support of this endeavor:

The Alfred P. Sloan Foundation The Procter and Gamble Fund

For collecting, examining, and cataloguing the hundreds of source documents from which this volume has been compiled:

Wallace E. Couch

For editorial criticism and detailed corrections to the manuscript as she had done for so many of Professor Schell's books and articles:

Beatrice A. Rogers

For typing and retyping the many drafts culminating in the final manuscript:

Jane Bryant Carol E. DiBennedetto Lillian G. Kiley Esther Merrill

Acknowledgments

Gladys L. Murley Marjorie E. Sullivan

For painstaking preparation of the index:

Elizabeth D. Goodwin Christine B. Moore

And, finally, we wish to express our particular indebtedness to Professor Schell's family — Mrs. Schell, Dr. Haskell Schell, and Esther (Schell) Prosser — without whose gracious cooperation and numerous suggestions this book could not have been written.

> HERBERT F. GOODWIN LEO B. MOORE

Special acknowledgment and appreciation is extended to the following for permission to adapt or reprint portions of material originally published by them:

American Management Association

"Basic Industrial Trends and Their Challenge to Management." The Basis of Production Planning (No. 182 in the AMA Production Series), p. 3. New York, 1949.

"Industry's Amazing Oversight." Motivating the Employee on Today's Production Front (No. 203 in the AMA Manufacturing Series), p. 12. New York, 1952.

"Observations on Top Policy Determination." Top Management Policies and Philosophies (No. 133 in the AMA General Management Series), p. 12. New York, 1945.

American Society of Mechanical Engineers

"Management Attitudes." American Society of Mechanical Engineers Transactions, April 1943, 65, 258.

Boston Keystone Custodian Fund, Inc.

"Appraising Industrial Administration." Boston, 1952.

Columbia University Department of Industrial and Management Engineering

"Everybody is a Manager." Utility Management Workshop (Arden House, N.Y., July 1957).

Economic and Business Foundation

"Production Management Policies Today." In McKee, William, and Donald V. Sawhill (Eds.). American Business Policies, p. 155. New Wilmington, Pa., 1945.

International Business Machines Corporation

"Human Dimensions of Enterprise." Think, June 1955, 21, 13.

International University of Social Studies

"The Invisible Ingredients." Essay written for use in Business Management courses. Rome, Italy, 1954.

Martin Company

"Control of Policies." An address given at The Glenn L. Martin Company Executive Management Forum, January 10, 1947. Baltimore, 1947.

McGraw-Hill Book Company

"The Million Dollar Lecture." In The Million Dollar Lecture and Letters to Former Students. New York, 1952. Pp. 177.

The National Council of the Young Men's Christian Association "What's Ahead for Management and Labor." Today's Priorities in Human Relations: Proceedings of the Thirty-fifth Silver Bay Conference on Human Relations in Industry (Silver Bay on Lake George, N.Y., July 1953), p. 21. New York, 1953.

Nation's Business

"Toward a Better Understanding in Industry." June 1939, 27, 23.

Society for the Advancement of Management

"The Changing Philosophy of Management." Advanced Management, December 1958, 23, 18.

"Industrial Continuum and the Nature of Man." Measurement of Management Conference, Proceedings (November 1955), p. 80.