Accelerationist view, 61, 266	Citibank, 124, 245-246, 252, 270
Agency frictions, 212–214	Cointegration, persistent price impact,
Announcements, macroeconomic, 189,	202-206, 281nn4, 18, 295n13, 296n26
265, 295n19	Covered interest parity, 283n3, 297n31
Anomaly persistence and order flow,	Crashes and collapses, market, 12, 59.
211–212	See also Fixed exchange rates
Asset market approach to exchange rate	Credit risk and market structure, 272
determination, 3, 15, 153–155	Customer-dealer trades
Auctioneer. See Walrasian auctioneer	and customer orders received by banks, 124
Balance of payments flows, 190-192,	and FXFX indicative quotes, 124-125
247-248, 279n1, 293n14	Customers
Bond markets, 41, 57, 282n9, 283n8	background on, 243-249
Brokers, interdealer spot, 42–46, 105, 123,	and balance of payments, 247-248
275-277, 284nn10, 12, 285n19	categories of, 249-252, 270
Bubbles, 172-173, 293n9	centralized trading for, 276-277
	and the collapse of the Yen/$ rate, 256-
Capital flows versus order flows, 246-	261
248	and the Evans-Lyons model, 248-249
CARA-Normal framework, 69, 105-112	and information structure, 253-256
Causality, 189-190, 204-205, 269, 286n2	and institution types, 253-256
Central bank intervention	leveraged investors as, 217
announced, unannounced, and secret,	nonfinancial corporations as, 217
227	and order flows, 246-249, 252-253, 269-and asymmetric information, 232-233	270
and exchange rate regimes, 223-225	spot market, 42, 44, 45
and fixed versus floating rates, 229-231	unleveraged investors as, 217
in foreign exchange markets (FX), 227-229	Data sets, foreign exchange market (FX)
and the Kyle model, 234–236	customer orders received by banks, 124,
microstructure models of, 231-236	290n6
and order flow, 223-225, 231	and equity data, 114
price impact of, 236–241	Evans, 121–123
and secrecy, 232–235	Evans-Lyons, 176–190
sterilized, 223-225, 225-227	FXFX indicative quotes, 113-114, 124-
unsterilized, 223–225	125, 283n7, 290n7, 303n1
and the Vitale 1999 model, 234-236	Goodhart and Payne, 123

Data sets, foreign exchange market (FX) Evans data set on, 121-123 (cont.) Lyons data set on, 117–118 and information sets, 125-126 Yao data set on, 118-121 integration, 125, 270-271, 290n8 Discount-rate information, 30–31 Killeen, Lyons, and Moore, 123–124, and imperfect substitutability, 33-34 192-198, 200-202 transitory inventory effects on, 32-33 Lyons, 117-118 Distressed selling, 257, 269 Yao, 118-121 Dealer markets, 63–65 Efficiency multiple, 40-41, 93-105, 289n27 semi-strong form, 3, 128, 303n11 single, 40, 86-93 strong form, 87, 271 Dealer-problem structural model, 134– Electronic Broking System (EBS), 116-117, 123-124, 201-202, 276-277, 290n3, formation of expectations in the, 137-300n5Electronic trading, 55, 113–114, 290n5 quote determination, 138 Emerging markets, 274, 281n2, 290n2 Dealers, foreign exchange market, 6-8, Equilibrium 40, 45-51, 93 model of exchange rate determination, and brokered interdealer transactions, 164 - 166123 - 124Killeen, Lyons, and Moore model, 198 and customer-dealer trades, 124-125 Kyle auction model, 80-81, 82-84 and the daily frequency model, 176–190 rational expectations auction model, 66data integration among, 270-271 67,70-71and direct interdealer transactions, 93simultaneous-trade model, 100-102 94, 98-99, 117-123 Error correction, 204-205 inventories, 46, 141, 267 European Monetary Union (EMU), 53, 193 and marketmakers, 283n6 profits, 49-51, 285n20, 288n23 Evans data set, 121-123, 176-190 Evans-Lyons model position sheets, 47–49 structural microstructure models, 134and asset payoff, 176-179 and causality, 189-190 and types of markets, 63-66 and customer flow, 248-249, 252-253 vote counters, 77-78 and the flow approach to exchange Demand and order flow, 7, 73, 188, 198rates, 190-192 and interdealer trading, 179-180 Derivatives, 38-39, 52, 246, 283n4, and intervention trades, 236-241 285n22 and order flow, 187-189 and portfolio balancing, 181-184, 222 Determination puzzle, exchange rates, 172 - 173and price, 180–184 and asset payoff, 176-180 results, 184-187 and causality, 189-190 robustness checks, 187-188 daily frequency model, 176-180 simultaneous-trade model links, 183and dealers, 176-190 Event uncertainty, 145, 237-238, 295n18 and equity markets, 294n2 Excess volatility puzzle, the, 192-206 and the Evans-Lyons model, 176–190 hybrid micro-macro models, 173–176 Exchange rate economics and order flow, 187-189 asset market approach to, 3, 15, 153–155 and the portfolio balance model, 180and the collapse of the Yen/$ rate, 256-184 and price, 180-187 and the determination puzzle, 172–190, and robustness checks, 187-188 294n3 Direct interdealer trading, 115–123 and the excess volatility puzzle, 192and the Dealing 2000-1 system, 117-123 206 and expectations, 14, 173-176 brokered interdealer trades, 114-117, and fixed versus floating rates, 192-206, 123-124 229-231, 296n23 brokers, 42-45 central bank intervention, 223-225, 227flexible-price monetary model, 155–157 and floating rate volatility, 265-266 flow approach to, 190-192 choke point, 222 and the collapse of the Yen/$ rate, 256and the forward bias puzzle, 206-220 fundamentals, 28, 151-155, 157, 301n14 general equilibrium model, 164–166, compared to other markets, 41 294n3, 298n44, 303n5 credit risk and market structure, 272, goods market approach to, 2, 152–153 296n27 hybrid micro-macro models of, 16-18, customer-dealer trades, 114-117 173 - 176customers, 42, 243-261 and information dispersion, 12–13 daily volume, 38–39 dealers, 6-8, 23-26, 40-41, 45-51 and the issues spectrum, 167, 169 and macroeconomic models, 1-2, 294n1 derivatives, 38-39, 52, 246, 283n4, and microfoundations, 151-152, 164-285n22 167, 303n5 description of, 37-38 microstructure approach to, 4–5, 10–11, direct interdealer trades, 117-123 13-14, 15-18 directions for research, 268-272 and micro versus macro issues, 167-Evans data set, 121–123 170 and expectations, 14 models, 155–163 flexible-price monetary model, 155–157 and order flow, 6-8, 9-10, 139-142, future of, 275-277 198 - 199Goodhart and Payne data set, 123 goods market view of, 152-153 overshooting model, 155-157 portfolio balance model, 160–163 and hot potato trading, 144-149, 267and purchasing power parity, 152-153, 268 155 - 157and international currencies, 274-275 and spread, 8-9 and inventory control, 143-144 sticky-price monetary model, 157-160 Killeen, Lyons, and Moore data set, 123and trading volume, 3, 13-14, 51-55 124 and uncovered interest parity, 153large dealer positions, 46–51 155 Lyons data set, 117-118 and utility maximization, 164-166 market design, 274 and the wealth constraint, 161-162 microstructure effects, 59-62, 302n1 Expectations modeling strategies, 45–51 and exchange rate determination, 14, order flow, 31-32, 139-142 173-176, 282n12, 295n4, 300n12 overshooting model, 157-160 and the rational expectations auction players, 41–45 model, 71-73 policy implications in, 272–275, 286n28 tools for calculating, 72, 83, 108, 111portfolio balance model, 160-163, 222 112, 137-138 and price, 142-149 profitability, dealer, 49-51, 285n20, Fixed exchange rates, 12, 192-206, 229-288n23 231, 273-274 and public information, 21-22, 25, Flexible-price monetary model, 155–157 Flow approach to exchange rates, 190and purchasing power parity, 152-153, 192, 279n1 155 - 157research data sets, 113-117 Foreign exchange markets (FX), 2–5. See also Spot market, the and the simultaneous-trade model, 93asset market view of, 153-155 and book passing, 284n14 and spreads, 43-44, 50-51

Foreign exchange markets (FX) (cont.) and central bank intervention, 231-236 statistical models, 126-134 discount-rate, 30-31 sticky-price monetary model, 157-160 and exchange rate determination, 173technical analysis in, 271–272, 298n42 176 trading volume, 41, 51–55, 142–149 and focus of book, 4 transaction taxes, 275 and foreign exchange dealers, 25-26, and transparency of order flow, 45-46, 55 - 5755-57, 275-276, 289n31 fundamental, 28, 151-155, 157, 301n14 turnover, 51-55 graphical interpretation of, 33–35 typical trading day, 47-51 and hot potato trading, 146-149 and uncovered interest parity, 153-155 intermediation, 95 investing in, 67-68, 286n31 Yao data set, 118-121 and the Kyle auction model, 78-79, 82-Forward bias puzzle, the and anomaly persistence, 211-212 description of, 206-207 mapping to price, 14, 21, 23, 59–60, 174– economist's perspective on, 208-209 176, 189, 232, 265 empirical support for, 216-219 and microfoundations, 166-167 and institutional allocation of and the microstructure approach to speculative capital, 212–214 exchange rates, 4, 12–13 and order flow, 219 and opinion, 287n7 and order flow, 7-8, 20-22, 55-57, 139practitioner's perspective on, 209–210 and risk premium, 209, 219-220 142, 146-149, 265 and Sharpe ratios, 212–213 and payoffs and non-payoffs, 27, 29-30, statistician's perspective on, 207 152, 268-269 and uncovered interest parity, 217-218 and price, 11-12, 22-23, 253-256 and underallocation of speculative private, 20, 26–28, 87–88, 95, 104, 271, 280n12, 291n13, 301n18, 303n11 capital, 215–216 Fundamentals, 28, 151-155, 157, 301n14 processing, two stages, 7 Future of foreign exchange markets (FX), public, 3-4, 8-9, 12-13, 128, 266, 279n5, 275 - 277281n1, 289n28, 296n21 Future payoffs and order flow, 34-35 and the rational expectations auction Future research, 268-272, 302n7, 303n10 model, 66-67, 70 and revelation, 66–67, 83–84, 102–103 General equilibrium model, 164–166, and the sequential-trade model, 87–88 294n3, 298n44, 303n5 and the simultaneous-trade model, 95, Goodhart and Payne data set, 123 96 - 99Goods market approach to exchange rate and spot market dealers, 45 determination, 2, 152-153 and spreads, 23-24 and structural microstructure models, Granger causality, 205-206, 269 139 - 142Handbook of International Economics, 2 taxonomy, 28-32 Hong Kong Stock Exchange, 40, 59 and transitory inventory effects on Hot potato trading, 13, 95-96, 102-104, discount rates, 33-34 144-149, 267-268 types of private, 28–35 and types of market models, 63-66 Imperfect substitutability, 33–34, 174, and volatility responses to trading halts, 221, 180, 240, 282n16, 292n26, 299n2 24 - 25Inaction range, 215–220 Institutions Information allocation of speculative capital, 212accelerationist view, 61, 266 aggregation of dispersed, 12, 14, 31–32, design, 58

and microfoundations, 166-167

36, 99, 232

and the microstructure approach, 4, 57–59
and the rational expectations auction model, 70 types, price impact, and information structure, 253–256
International currencies, 274–275
Intervention. See Central bank intervention
Inventory models, 46, 66, 141, 291n17, 292nn21, 24, 294n5, 303n2

Jensen's inequality, 287n11

Killeen, Lyons, and Moore model and asset payoff, 194-198 and cointegration, 202-205 data set, 123-124, 200-202 equilibrium, 198 and excess volatility, 205-206 Kyle auction model asset payoff, 79–82 and central bank intervention, 234-236 description of, 64-65, 76-77 details, 79-82 equilibrium, 82-84 and individual trades, 86 and information, 80-81 insights, 77-79 and institutions, 80-81 and liquidity and market efficiency, 77-79 marketmakers, 77-79, 79-82 and order flow, 78 players, 80-81 and risk-aversion, 85 and spread, 85

Lamppost metaphor, 171 Limit orders, 6–7, 290nn6, 11, 304n11 Liquidity, 77–79, 84, 260–261, 273, 284n11 London Stock Exchange, 56 Lyons data set, 117–118, 176–190

Macroeconomics

and asset approach to exchange rates, 15, 153–155 assumptions, 4, 279n2 and central bank intervention, 223–227 determination puzzle, 172–190 excess volatility model, 192–206

and exchange rate models, 155–163 flexible-price monetary model, 155-157 forward bias model, 207-220 and goods market approach to exchange rates, 2, 152–153 hybrid micro-macro models, 15–18, 173 - 176and microfoundations, 164-170, 294n3, 303n5 and microstructure approach to exchange rates, 12, 14, 15–18, 264–268 and micro versus macro issues, 167-170 and purchasing power parity, 152-153, 155 - 157sticky-price monetary model, 157–160 and tastes and technology, 164-170 trends in, 279n2 and uncovered interest parity, 153-155 Markets, auction and dealer, 40, 63–65, 274 Martingale, 289n25 Meta models, 217–218 Microfoundations, 164–170, 294n3, 303n5 Microstructure effects, 60-62, 302n1 Microstructure models and analysis of crashes and collapses, 12, 59 and CARA-normal framework, 69, 105of central bank intervention, 231-236 dealer-problem, 134-139 definitions in, 5-9 and the determination puzzle, 172–190 directions for research, 268-272 and discount-rate information, 30-31 effects versus tools, 59-62, 301n1 and exchange rate determination, 2–5, 13-14, 15-16 versus exchange rate economics, 1–2 and the flow approach to exchange rates, 190-192 and foreign exchange markets, 2, 4-5, 113-117, 125-126, 264-268, 267-268 hallmarks, 5-9 hybrid micro-macro, 16-18, 173-176 and imperfect substitutability, 221 and information economics, 4, 12–13 and institution design, 57-59 institutions, 4 inventory models, 46, 66, 141, 291n17, 292nn21, 24, 294n5, 303n2 and the Kyle auction model, 77-86

Microstructure models (cont.) defined, 6-7 lessons learned, 264-268 and demand, 7, 73, 188, 198-199 long-lived implications of, 11–12 and distressed selling, 257, 269 lower frequency relevance of, 11-12, and the Evans-Lyons model, 187-189 176, 198, 293n18 and the excess volatility puzzle, 194and macroeconomics, 12, 14, 15-18 195 exogeneity of, 204-205, 269 and manipulation, 288n17 and order flow, 6-8, 9-10, 267 and expected future payoffs, 34-35 players, 4, 6-8 expected versus unexpected, 188 policy implications of, 272-275 and floating rate volatility, 265-266 and the rational expectations auction and foreign exchange dealers, 25-26, model, 66-76 31-32, 139-142 and risk aversion, 105-112, 163, 166, and FX swaps, 38-39, 51-52, 246 219 - 220and forward rate bias, 219 and the sequential-trade model, 86–93 graphical interpretation of, 32–35 and the simultaneous-trade model, 93and hot potato trading, 146-149 hybrid micro-macro models of, 16-18, and spreads, 8-9, 23-24, 130-134 173 - 176statistical, 126-134 and imperfect substitutability, 33-34 statistical versus structural, 126 information role for, 20-22 and information structure, 253-256, 265 types of, 63-66 Monetary models and institution types, 253-256 flexible-price, 155–157 and the Killeen, Lyons, and Moore and institutions and information, 166model, 200-202 167 and the Kyle auction model, 78 overshooting, 157–160 and limit orders, 6–7, 290nn6, 11, portfolio balance, 160-163, 180-184 304n11 sticky-price, 157-160 measuring, 127, 284n12 Multiple-dealer markets, 40–41, 93–105 and microstructure approach to Multiple equilibria, 11, 295n10 exchange rates, 15-18, 60-62, 173-176, NASDAQ, 56, 59, 284n9 and monetary models, 167, 295n4 and price, 11-12, 22-23, 29-30, 198-200, NBER microstructure program, 169–170 New York Stock Exchange (NYSE), 24-264-266, 273, 291nn13, 14 25, 40, 56, 291n18 price impact measured, 141, 147, 186-Nonrational behavior, 172-173 187, 236, 239–240, 254–255, 265, 270, Notation, DM/$ versus $/DM, 280n16 273, 301n21 and random walk, 184 Open issues, 268-270 and the rational expectations auction Order flow, 6–10 model, 76 and anomaly persistence, 211-212 and reverse causality, 269 and asset approach to exchange rates, and spot market dealers, 45-46 15, 294nn4, 6 and spreads, 23-24 and auction markets, 6, 290n11 and structural models, 139-142 brokered versus direct, 114-117, 291n14 and supply and demand, 31–32 versus capital flows, 246–248 and survey data, 25-26 and central bank intervention, 223–225, time-aggregated, 23

231

270, 295n13

and cointegration issues, 202-206,

and customer orders, 124, 243-252, 269-

281nn4, 18, 295n13, 296n26

and trading volume, 6-7

discount rates, 32–33

289n31

and transitory inventory effects on transparency of, 45–46, 55–57, 275–276,

types of information conveyed by, 28–35	and the simultaneous-trade model, 102-104
and vector auto-regression models	and the spot markets, 42
(VAR), 22	state dependency of, 237-238
and volatility responses to trading halts, 24–25	and the sticky-price monetary model, 157–160
what drives, 17-18, 188-189	and trading volume, 142-149
Overshooting model, 157–160	and uncovered interest parity, 153-155
Over-the-counter markets (OTC), 56	and vector auto-regression (VAR) models, 22, 127–130
Paris Bourse, 40, 59	and the wealth constraint, 161-162
Path dependence, 260-261	Private information, 20, 26-28, 87-88, 95
Preferences, 69, 105–112	104, 271, 280n12, 291n13, 301n18,
Policy implications of microstructure	303n11
analysis, 272–275, 286n28	Profitability, dealer, 49-51, 285n20,
Portfolio balance model, 160-163, 180-	288n23
184	Purchasing power parity, 152–153, 155–
and price effects, 30-35, 222, 226, 240,	157, 293n11
300n8	Puzzles, exchange rates, 13-14, 171
and sterilized intervention, 225-227	determination, 172-190
Price	excess volatility, 192-206
and asset payoffs, 29-30	forward bias, 206-220
and brokers, 42-45	home bias, 170, 280n11
and customer types, 270	volume, 13-14, 142-144
and the daily frequency model, 176-
190	Quotes
and dealer inventories, 267	conventions, 272
discovery, 87	FXFX indicative, 113-114, 124-125,
elasticity, 265	283n7, 290n7, 303n1
and error correction, 204-205	and the handle, 119
and the Evans-Lyons model, 180-184	regret free, 89, 135, 138
and the flexible-price monetary model,
155–157	Rational expectations auction model
and the goods market approach to	asset payoff, 68–70
exchange rates, 152–153	description of, 63-64, 66-67
and institution types, 253-256	details, 68–70
and intervention trades, 236-241	equilibrium, 66-67, 70-71
market-clearing, 73–74	generality and the, 75
and order flow, 22-23, 199-200, 264-	implicit auctioneer, 74–75
266, 273	insights, 67–68
and the overshooting model, 157–160	and knowledge of the pricing rule, 76
and path dependence, 260-261	and market-clearing price, 73-74
and the portfolio balance model, 160-	and nonstrategic behavior, 75
163, 180–184	and order flow, 76
and private information, 26-28	players, 70
and public information, 128, 266	and price, 67–68, 70
and purchasing power parity, 152-153	and traders' demands, 73
and the rational expectations model, 67–	and traders' expectations, 71–73
68, 70, 73–74, 76	trading period, 68-70
regret free, 89, 135, 138	utility function, 69–70
and the sequential-trade model, 87-88,	Real money accounts, 256
89 91_92	Regret free quotes 89 135 138

Revelation, full versus partial, 66–67 Single-dealer markets, 40, 86–93 Risk aversion and microstructure models, Speculative capital, 213–215 105-112, 163, 166, 219-220 Speculative efficiency model, 3 Spot market, the. See also Foreign Risk premium, 26–36, 160–163, 181–184, 209, 219-220, 282n13 exchange markets (FX) Riskless asset, 111, 287n11 and auction markets, 40 and brokered interdealer trades, 43-44, Siegel's paradox, 287n11 45-46,55Sequential-trade model brokers, 42-45 and dealer pricing, 89 and customer-dealer trades, 43-44 dealers, 87-88 customers, 42, 44, 45 description of, 65, 86 dealers, 45-51 and direct interdealer trades, 43-44 details, 88-91 insights, 87–88 distinguishing characteristics, 41 and electronic brokers, 55 and institutions, 89 and the order arrival process, 92 features of, 39-51 players, 89 and multiple-dealer markets, 40-41 and price discovery, 87-88 players, 41-45 and private information, 87-88 positions, dealer, 46-51 and risk aversion, 93 prices, 42 setting bid and offer prices in the, 91-92 and single-dealer markets, 40 and spreads, 87-88 trade types, 43 and strategic behavior, 92 trading volume, 38-39, 41 trade types, 90-91 and transparency of order flow, 45-46, Sharpe ratio of currency strategies, 210-55-57, 275-276, 289n31 216, 297n34, 298nn38, 44 turnover, 51-55 Signaling channel and sterilized types of trades, 43–45 intervention, 225-227 Spreads Simultaneity, 89, 135, 138, 189–190, 204– components, 23-24, 130-133 205, 292n23 and costs, 131-134, 291n19 Simultaneous-trade model and exchange rates, 8-9 and brokered trading, 104-105 and foreign exchange markets, 43–44, and dealer inventories, 95 dealer objectives and information sets, and informative order flow, 23-24 100 and inventory component, 131-134 dealer quotes, 100-102 and the Kyle auction model, 85 description of, 65-66, 93-94 and microstructure research, 8 details, 96-99 and the sequential-trade model, 87-88 equilibrium, 100-102 and the simultaneous-trade model, 104 Evans-Lyons model links, 183–184 and the trade-indicator model, 130-134 and foreign exchange markets (FX), 93-Statistical microstructure models trade-indicator, 130-134 and hot potato trading, 95-96, 102-104 vector auto-regression (VAR), 22, 127-130 and information, 95, 96-99 Sterilized central bank intervention, 223insights, 94-96 225, 225–227 and institutions, 98 Sticky-price monetary model, 157–160 players, 98 Strategic trading, 75, 80, 85, 92 and price, 102-104 Structural microstructure models and private information, 95, 104 dealer-problem, 134-139 and risk aversion, 95-96 and hot potato trading, 144–149 information structure, 135-137 and signaling, 104

and order flow, 139-142

and spread, 104

Supply and order flow, 32–35 Systematic versus diversifiable risk, 31, 213–214

Tastes and technology, 164–170

Taxes, transaction, 143, 275, 304n10 Technical analysis in foreign exchange markets (FX), 271-272, 290n6, 298n42 Tool kit, 105-112 Trade-indicator model, 130-134 Trading halts, 24-25 Trading intensity, 84, 86, 145 Trading mechanisms and the asset market approach to exchange rates, 4-5 and customer-dealer trades, 124-125 data integration among, 270-271 direct interdealer, 93-94, 98-99, 115-123 and the Evans data set, 121-123 and FXFX indicative quotes, 124-125 and the Goodhart and Payne data set, 123 and the goods market approach to exchange rates, 2 hot potato, 95-96, 102-104, 144-149, 267 - 268intervention, 236-241 and the Killen, Lyons, and Moore data set, 123-124 and limit orders, 6-7, 290nn6, 11, and the Lyons data set, 117-118 and the microstructure approach to exchange rates, 4–5 and order flow, 6-8, 9-10 and private information, 20, 26-28, 87-88, 95, 104 spot market, 43-45, 45-51

and the Yao data set, 118-121

and spreads, 8–9, 43–44 state-dependency of, 237–238

Transaction taxes, 275

142 - 149

24 - 25

Transaction volume, 3, 6, 13–14, 41, 51–55, 142–149, 292n25

and trading volume, 3, 13-14, 41, 51-55,

and volatility responses to trading halts,

Transitory inventory effects on discount rates, 32–33

Transparency of order flow, 45–46, 55–57, 275–276, 289n31

Uncovered interest parity, 153–155, 217–218, 295n15

Unsterilized central bank intervention, 223–225

Utility maximization, 105-112, 164-166

Vector auto-regression models (VAR), 22, 127–130

Vehicle currencies, 286n24

Vitale 1999 model, the, 234-236

Volatility, 11, 24–25, 158, 169, 192–206, 293n20, 296n22

Volume, trading, 3, 6, 13–14, 41, 51–55, 125, 142–149, 292n25

Walrasian auctioneer, 9–10, 64–65, 74–77, 280n1

Wealth constraint, 106-108, 161-162

Yao data set, 118–121 Yen, Japanese, in fall 1998, 256–261