INDEX

American Economic Review, 52n

Bakke, E. W., 5n, 43n, 45n, 49n, 52n
Barriers to movement, on the demand side, 39
on the supply side, 39
Bezanson, A., 5n
Bezanson, A., M. Hussey, J. H. Willits, and L. F. White, 5n
Boston Globe, 32n
Bureau of Employment Security, 20n

Cairnes, J. E., 45
Census of Total Unemployment, Partial Unemployment, and Occupations, 1937, 9n
Code sheet, 83
Community studied, 7-10

Contrasts, 1937-39, and 1942, 74 Data and method, 12-15, 80-87 De Schweinitz, D., 26n, 46n

Earnings, movement in relation to, 55–59, 64–66, 98, 101–103, 105 Employment, continuity of, 15 distribution of total, 88

Gentlemen's agreement, 40-43 Glasser, C., 5n

Higher-wage firms, increases by, 58-59 Hiring practices, restrictive, 40-43, 43-45

Huntington, E. H., 49n

Incentives to move, weakness of financial, 49-51 Industries, of community, 24–25 seasonality of, 24, 28–30, 93
Intercity movements, 26–27
Intercompany movements, 25–33
Interindustry movements, 25–33, 95
Interview method, 80, 84–87

Jobs, methods of securing, 46–47 months between, 66, 68–69

Labor market calendar, 94
Labor market studies, 4-6
Labor requirements, differences in, and movement, 40
Labor surplus and movement, 40
Labor turnover, 1, 55n, 61-63, 105-107
(see also Movement of labor)
Limitations of the study, 10, 71

Makower, H., J. Marshak, and H. W. Robinson, 5n, 26n Massachusetts Department of Labor and Industries, 8n Massachusetts Unemployment Compensation Law, 51n Method and data, 12-15, 80-87 Microfilm, use of, 80–81 Minnesota, University of, Employment Stabilization Institute, 5n Monthly Labor Review, 5n Movement of labor, barriers to interfactory, 39-40 characteristics of workers who move, 33-38, 97, 100 contrasts between 1937-39

1942, 74

110 INDEX

Movement of labor (continued) and differences in labor requirements, 40 and distribution of labor, 2, 63-66 effect of, on low-wage firms, 55-57 and equalization of wages, 1-2, 55-59 forced, 17–18, 35–38, 67–68 general impressions on, 75 and "hard-core" unemployment, 3, 67 - 69toward high-wage industries, 31-33 and the individual worker, 2-3, 63-69 influence of unemployment compensation on, 51-52 of unionism on, 52-53 intercity, 26-27 intercompany, 25-33 interindustry, 25-33, 95 and labor surplus, 40 neighborhood clusters of, 25-28, 29, reasons for interfactory, 1937-39, 17, 89, 90-91 in relation to wage levels, 31-33 between seasonal industries, 28-30 types of, 17 volume of, 1937–39, 15–19, 1942, 19 - 22voluntary, 17-19, 33-35, 63-66 and wage levels, 57 wastes of, 3-4, 61-63

National Resources Planning Board, 7n

Neighborhood employment, tendency toward, 45–48

Occupational changes and versatility, 66-67

Oxford Economic Papers, 5n, 26n

Palmer, D. L., 7n

Palmer, G. L., 5n, 84n
Pennsylvania, University of, Industrial Research Department, 5n
Personnel characteristics, of discharged workers, 37, 100
of laid-off workers, 35–38
of workers who moved voluntarily, 33–35, 97
"Pirating" of workers, 4, 40–43

Quarterly Journal of Economics, 5n, 14n, 52n, 69n, 76n

Sample, coverage of, 13-15
Seasonality, of employment, 24-25, 28, 30, 93, 94
Slichter, S. H., 52n
Social Science Research Council, 5n
Suggestions for future, 76-79
Survey of Current Business, 8, 104n

Trend of factory employment, 1925–42, 8, 104

Unemployment, "hard core," 3, 67-69 Unemployment compensation, influence of, on movement, 51-52

Unionism, influence of, on movement, 52-53

Unionization, 1937-42, 52-53, 60 United States Bureau of Labor Statistics, Factory Labor Turnover, 18n, 21n

Labor Turn-over in Manufacturing, 21n

United States Employment Service, 4n, 6n, 12, 14, 19, 21, 40, 47, 48-49, 77, 79

Versatility of workers and movement, 66-67

Vocational guidance, absence of, 48-49, 77-78

INDEX 111

Wage cuts and movement, 59-60 Wage increases and movement, 55-59 Wage levels and voluntary movement, Wages in relation to other job conditions, 59-61

Webb, J. N., and A. Westfield, 5n

Welfare programs and movement, 60 Wells, R. G., and J. S. Perkins, 88n Working conditions and movement, 60

W. P. A., National Research Project,

Woytinsky, W. S., 3n, 18n