

Contents

Acknowledgments ix

Preface: Pink, Purple, Casual, or Mainstream Games: Moving Beyond the Gender Divide xi

Yasmin B. Kafai, Carrie Heeter, Jill Denner, and Jennifer Y. Sun

Part I Reflections on a Decade of Gender and Gaming 1

1 From Quake Grrls to Desperate Housewives: A Decade of Gender and Computer Games 5

Henry Jenkins and Justine Cassell

2 Notes from the Utopian Entrepreneur 21

Brenda Laurel

3 Games and Technological Desire: Another Decade 33

Cornelia Brunner

Part II Gaming Communities: Girls and Women as Players 47

4 Becoming a Player: Networks, Structure, and Imagined Futures 51

T. L. Taylor

5 Body, Space, and Gendered Gaming Experiences: A Cultural Geography of Homes, Cybercafés, and Dormitories 67

Holin Lin

- 6 Maps of Digital Desires: Exploring the Topography of Gender and Play in Online Games 83
Nick Yee
- 7 Gender Dynamics of the Japanese Media Mix 97
Mizuko Ito
- 8 Gender Play in a Tween Gaming Club 111
Yasmin B. Kafai
- Part III Girls and Women as Game Designers 125
- 9 What Games Made by Girls Can Tell Us 129
Jill Denner and Shannon Campe
- 10 Gaming in Context: How Young People Construct Their Gendered Identities in Playing and Making Games 145
Caroline Pelletier
- 11 Getting Girls into the Game: Toward a "Virtuous Cycle" 161
Tracy Fullerton, Janine Fron, Celia Pearce, and Jacki Morie (Ludica)
- 12 Crunched by Passion: Women Game Developers and Workplace Challenges 177
Mia Consalvo
- Part IV Changing Girls, Changing Games 193
- 13 Are Boy Games Even Necessary? 199
Nicole Lazzaro
- 14 Girls, Gaming, and Trajectories of IT Expertise 217
Elisabeth Hayes

15 Design to Promote Girls' Agency through Educational Games: The Click! Urban Adventure	231
Kristin Hughes
16 Using Storytelling to Introduce Girls to Computer Programming	247
Caitlin Kelleher
17 Design Heuristics for Activist Games	265
Mary Flanagan and Helen Nissenbaum
18 Gender Identity, Play Style, and the Design of Games for Classroom Learning	281
Carrie Heeter and Brian Winn
Part V Industry Voices	301
19 Interview with Megan Gaiser, Her Interactive	303
20 Interview with Morgan Romine, Ubisoft's Frag Dolls	311
21 Interview with Sheri Graner Ray, longtime game designer	319
22 Interview with Nichol Bradford, Vivendi Games	329
23 Interview with Brenda Brathwaite, Savannah College of Art and Design	337
Contributors	345
Index	351