

Figure 18.3 Bitmapped images of letters from the alphabet: The first three are clean version that are used as patterns to be stored. The last three are used as seed images that the associative memory must use to recall one of the first three.